Dozens Of Nebraskans Resort To Acupuncture

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of five articles about Nebraskans and acupuncture.)

By JOEL THORSON
Star Staff Writer

One cure hardly constitutes a medical revolution, but Mrs. Richard Vryheid of Waverly, whose longtime chronic migraine and back pains disappeared during acupuncture treatments in Kansas City, Mo., is only one of several dozen Nebraskans who have gone there for treatment.

Many have returned telling of remarkable recoveries from a wide variety of ailments.

Dr. James L. Rowland and Dr. William Fowler, licensed osteopathic physicians who run the two Kansis City clinics devoted exclusively to acupuncture, hasten to explain to prospective patients that the ancient Oriental healing art is not a cure-all.

Yet Dr. Fowler claims that in 85% of patients treated, improvement is produced ranging "anywhere from a miracle cure to practically nothing."

The accounts of those southeast Nebraska acupuncture patients interviewed by The Star suggest that Mrs. Vryheid's case is no fluke and lend credence to Dr. Fowler's claim.

Border on 'Miraculous'

Some of the Nebraska patients report cures bordering on the "miraculous" category.

Mrs. James Vaughn of 4510 S. 36th, Lincoln, was losing vision in her left eye when she began treatment at the Rowland clinic. Multiple images in that eye had signaled the beginning of a loss of vision, which doctors said could not be recovered.

Acupuncture treatment has gradually restored some of her vision, she said. Although she still has no sight in the center of her left eye, peripheral vision has returned and Mrs. Vaughn is heartened. "I'm just kind of a believer in acupuncture after that," she said.

Mrs. Bud Yant of 4100 Fiene Blvd., Lincoln, suffered from constant tension headaches from "15 or 20 years." Three or four doctors and the Mayo Clinic told her nothing could be done. "I was willing to do anything," she said.

Since acupuncture treatment, said Mrs. Yant, "I feel like a new woman. I haven't felt so good in years. To be without a headache after all this time. . ."

'Stopped Popping Pills'

An occasional headache is relieved by two aspirin, Mrs. Yant said. "It used to take much, much more than that. I was taking 10-14 aspirin a day plus Darvon. I've stopped popping pills."

Lincoln police detective 'Dick Miller of 720 S. 32 says he was cured of the psoriasis that afflicted him "all over" for 40 years, since he was a child. After having seen several doctors, Miller was ready to try anything and went to the Rowland clinic for acupuncture treatment.

The psoriasis "came back a little because I laid off for about two-three months during the summer," Miller said. But he returned for further treatment, and "it's almost got me free of it," he said.

Acupuncture is "something else," Miller said, adding that he "just wasn't expecting to get rid of it (psoriasis). It's a hell of a relief.

"I'll be glad when they get somebody who can do it up here."

Mrs. M. Wayne Hart of 6325 Dudley, a post-polio patient, has had 15-16 treatments at the Rowland clinic. They produced an immediate "loosening and added strength in my muscles," she said, and complete relief from arthritic pain. Improvement "stays with me longer each time," she said.

Mrs. Hart is now being treated by Dr. David Rosenberg of Omaha, the only Nebraskan practicing acupuncture. (and only on a limited basis). Going to Kansas City for treatment is difficult and expensive, she says without ruling out further travel to the Rowland clinic.

"The Rowlands (Dr. Rowland and his son, Dr. James Rowland Jr.) say half their business is from Nebraska," Mrs. Hart notes. "everybody I know is being helped, and I know a lot of people who've gone down there."

If more experimentation with acupuncture were done in Nebraska, Mrs. Hart says, Nebraskans "would be amazed."

(NEXT: Multiple sclerosis treatments tried.)

MRS. VAUGHN . . .vision restored.

MILLER . . . reports psoriasis cure.

Bork Says Assurances Given By White House

. . . Weren't Discussed With Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork testified Monday that special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski has White House assurances he can go to court for any evidence, including presidential tapes, if President Nixon refuses to hand it over.

"He's free to go to court," Bork said.

Bork told a House Judiciary subcommittee he believes Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen has already drawn up a demand for White House documents not previously produced but said he doesn't know what they are.

Bork also told the congressmen he believes Texas lawyer Jaworski will seek new Watergate indictments in what Bork hopes will be a month or less.

Bork said Jaworski was assured of the freedom to go to court for any evidence during a meeting with White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., and White House lawyers J. Fred Buzhardt and Leonard Garment.

"Everybody agreed to it," Bork testified. "That means to me, that if he did it, he would not be fired."

But Bork said that he personally had not discussed with Nixon the assurance that Jaworski could go to court for evidence.

Nixon fired Jaworski's predecessor Archibald Cox, when Cox refused to go along with a presidential order to seek no further white House tapes or documents.

Bork also testified that he opposes all five basic proposals before Congress for creation of a separate Watergate prosecutor and is against a congressional hand in naming or confirming the prosecutor.

As Bork testified, Jaworski arrived in Washington from Houston and said he will carry forward the Watergate investigation independently with the staff put together by Cox. "I have tried to insulate myself in such a way that I would have complete independence," he said.

Word that President Nixon would not fire Jaworski unless at least six of the eight congressional leaders he has promised to consult agreed was reported to the House subcommittee by Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa.

Mayne said presidential adviser Melvin R. Laird told him at lunch that the President had taken that position.

Former Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox told the House hearing he believes Jaworski will run into the same conflict with the President that he did — and said that is why Congress should make the prosecutor independent.

In other Watergate-related developments Monday:

—Donald H. Segretti, a political saboteur financed with Nixon campaign funds, was sentenced in federal court to serve six months in a minimum security institution. He has testified he was recruited for his campaign sabotage by former presidential aide Dwight L. Chapin. Segretti pleaded guilty last month to three federal misdemeanor counts arising from violation of federal laws in the 1972 Florida Democratic presidential campaign.

—At Key Biscayne, the President conferred with his Watergate lawyers and the Florida White House repeated Nixon's intention to see the Watergate matter cleared up.

—Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., publicly broke with Nixon and advised Republicans to proclaim independence from the White House. Dominick, a longtime Nixon loyalist, said in a Denver speech that the President should disclose immediately all information on the Watergate investigations.

—Watergate prosecutors disclosed that ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III told them last week that he shredded two notebooks taken from Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt's safe. The government has contended for nearly a year that all evidence in the safe had been turned over to the FBI.

—The disclosure about the notebooks was made during court proceedings in which U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica indicated he would turn down motions to withdraw guilty pleas made by Hunt and four other Watergate trial defendants.

The four others are Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio L. Martinez, Frank E. Sturgis and Virgilio Gonzalez. The four Miami men claim they thought they were participating in a legitimate government intelligence operation when they broke into Democratic headquarters in June, 1972.

5 Buildings Burn In Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)— Flames whipped by a chill autumn wind Monday raged through four downtown office buildings and a 15-story hotel in a multimillion-dollar holocaust.

The flames, fed by 20 mile-per-hour winds, posed a serious threat for several hours to other nearby buildings, including the headquarters of Merchants National Bank.

The fire broke out during the noon rush hour, and it took firemen four hours to bring the blaze under control. There were no known injuries, but damage was estimated at some $15 million.

Officials first said the flames might have been ignited by a workman's cutting torch in an old W.T. Grant building being demolished. But demolition company officials later told firemen they were not working Monday.

Fire Chief Donald Lamb theorized it might have been a propane blast because three or four cans of the gas were stored on the fourth floor of the building where the fire was believed to have started.

The fire was centered on the major downtown thoroughfare, Washington Street (U.S. 40), spreading from the W.T. Grant building to neighboring structures.

Flames sooon destroyed the neighboring Thomas Building, a 12-story structure that had been completely remodeled in 1970.

Eventually, flames spread into adjoining buildings along that side of Washington Street and forced evacuation of the Merchants Bank.

Winds filled the sky with flaming embers and firebrands which poured across the street and apparently set afire the Washington Hotel's upper two floors.

At least 20 buildings were evacuated and many occupants left their buildings carrying cartons of important office files, cash and other valuables.

The Indianapolis Fire Department sent sixteen engines and eight snorkel and aerial units to fight the fire. Nearby township fire departments were asked to move their units to suburban departments to cover for those which had moved downtown.

Utility workers quickly shut off all natural gas and electric service in the area. Even so, several small explosions were heard.

Two major problems confronting firemen were the height of the buildings, well above the 100-foot aerial ladders' limits, and the gusting winds which often blew water back at the firemen.

Zoning South Of Normal Debated

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Planning Director Doug Brogden's request to dezone two tracts of ground in the embattled area between 40th and 47th south of Normal Blvd. prompted a round of fireworks during a hearing before the City Council Monday.

During the lengthy debate in which city lawmakers were warned of possible lawsuits, Brogden's action was both praised and lamented by residents and owners of the land in question.

At issue are two properties, which Brogden wants rezoned to A-2 Residential.

In 1967, the council rezoned a .9-acre tract to G Local Business for a physician's office building. Last year the old council rezoned a 4.6-acre tract to C Multiple Dwelling. A lawsuit concerning the C Multiple property is pending in district court.

Correct Past Errors

Duane Nelson, representing residents in the area, urged the council to correct past councils' errors and bring the land back into conformance with the Comprehensive Plan, which calls for residential development.

If the present zoning is allowed, Nelson argued, "the pressure is going to be on the whole area. The domino theory is a realty in zoning," he said.

Attorney Norm Krivosha, representing the owners of the .9-acre tract, countered, "If we carry the domino theory to its logical conclusion, everything in Lincoln would be zoned for business. We'd start at 13th and O and move out."

Krivosha told city lawmakers that the entire tract of land between 40th and 47th, through which Antelope Creek runs, will not develop residentially.

Pointing to the presence to the west of the Americana Nursing Home and Eden Park swimming pool, the former city attorney contended the area south of Normal Blvd. "is just not the same" as the residential area to the north.

Price Too High Now

Although the property was purchased to construct a one-story office building, he reported construction costs were deemed too high to build the office at this time.

Armed with a miniature model, blueprints and charts, Krivosha said the owners have spent $40,000 on preliminary plans and the land.

"If our staying there makes life unbearable, we'll get out. Just give us back our $40,000," he pleaded.

But Nelson disputed that the developers had any vested interest in the property, saying, "They don't have any basis for suing the city for damages."

Krivosha: "Unfair'

Said Krivosha, "It's unfair to say, 'Tough luck.' "

When asked to react to Councilman Steve Cook's suggestion to zone the property under F Restricted Commercial, Krivosha said he would agree if a pharmacy could be included in the building under that zoning.

City Att. Dick Wood said he thought a pharmacy could be considered an "accessory use," but added he would need to study the question further.

David Pierson, a trustee for Western Realty, which owns the land now zoned C Multiple, said the 60 to 68 units envisioned for the property "would not devalue this area, or any other."

The city's action dezoning the ground would be tantamount to reverse condemnation, Pierson claimed, by reducing the value of the land.

'Too Obvious'

He said the economic impact of such an action is "too obvious." Western Realty acquired the land for $48,500 he reported.

Pierson voiced concern that the council would be "jumping back and forth" on zoning questions which would raise the question in the public's mind about the validity of any city zoning decisions.

Both Pierson and Krivosha indicated court action is a possibility if the issue is not resolved.

Wood told city lawmakers that previous councils had "erroneously granted two illegal spot zones to begin with" on the C Multiple and G Local Business zoning.

He advised the council to look at the over-all character of the area and to zone the land under one zoning category, "whether that be G, B or A-2."

Defending Council

With a suit pending in district court on the C Multiple zoning, Wood has been placed in the position of defending the council's action on that action.

Also urging council denial of Brogden's applications were Lloyd Hinkley of the Lincoln Board of Realtors, Jack Burnham of the Lincoln Homebuilders Association and George Hancock, a real estate broker.

Hinkely, a former councilman, raised a number of questions concerning the implications such action could have, including:

—At what point can real estate owners and brokers be assured of the finality of prior zoning decisions?

—How can a purchaser of real estate protect the value of his initial investment or the value of subsequent investments in development costs and improvements?

—How can the continued availability of financing be assured, which is largely based on the appraised values of real estate as presently zoned?

—Does the passage of time make a zoning decision final, and if so, how much time?

The City-County Planning Commission has recommended both dezoning applications. The council is scheduled to take action next Monday.

Penal Reform Compromise Sought

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Legislative representatives and the Exon administration have been negotiating behind the scenes for the past four months to reach a mutually acceptable penal reform plan for submission in the 1974 Legislature.

Officials indicate that the administration hopes to have a common proposal, or its own version if an agreement cannot be reached, in time for Gov. J. James Exon to present it at the Citizens Correctional Conference Nov. 26 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

The tentative agenda indicates that Exon will address the conference on Monday, Nov. 26, on "Corrections Plan for Nebraska."

State Corrections Director Victor Walker reportedly has submitted recommendations for the penal reform plan to Exon. Gus Lieske, state budget director, and his staff are presently piecing together the 1974 proposal.

Lieske declined to release any work completed thus far or to indicate what the administration is willing to compromise.

A tug-of-war between Exon and the Legislature's Judiciary Committee arose during the 1973 Legislature over whether to enact the committee's $30 million proposal or the Exon plan, which had half the committee's price tag.

The Exon package was tabled by the committee, and the Judiciary Committee's plan failed to override an Exon veto.

'Too Early To Say'

"It's too early to say what we'll come out with," Lieske said. "There's been general agreement on programs, and a few changes have been made in the plan from last year.

"Right now, I can't say whether an agreement will be reached."

The Exon proposal for this year is expected to be similar to the last one with new construction taking a backseat to emphasis on training and rehabilitation programs.

Walt Radcliffe, a staff member of the Judiciary Committee, said, "We're not that far from an agreement. The governor's staff has been most cooperative.

"I hope we can find something to agree on and avoid a confrontation like last year."

Radcliffe also declined to indicate which features of the committee's plan are "bargainable" and which must remain intact.

New Construction

Any compromise will hinge on whether both sides can agree on how much should be spent on new construction.

Exon's original plan called for $14 million in federal revenue sharing to be spent over the next four years; the Judiciary Committee proposed to spend $30 million over the next seven years.

A chief difference between the two plans is whether men's reformatories and diagnostic and treatment units are needed in both Omaha and Lincoln.

The committee's consultants, Curtis and Davis of New Orleans and Henningson, Durham & Richardson of Omaha, recommended new 200-bed reformatories and treatment units in both Omaha and Lincoln.

Exon, on the other hand, proposed a single 400-bed reformatory located halfway between Lincoln and Omaha and a single remodeled treatment and diagnostic center in Lincoln.

The Judiciary Committee and Exon also parted company over what should be done about the present maximum security penitentiary. The committee favored constructing a new unit, while Exon suggested a remodeling of the present facility.

IBM Protests Subpoenas On Competitors

New York (AP) — International Business Machines Corp. went into federal court protesting that Justice Department subpoenas served on at least four major competitors threatened "serious disruption" of the progress of a four-year-old antitrust prosecution. IBM asked the judge to quash subpoenas for information served recently upon National Cash Register Co., Honeywell, Inc., Control Data Corp., and Sperry Rand Corp.

Kissinger Brings To Arabs His Efforts For Peace

(c) New York Times News Service

Rabat, Morocco — Secretary of State Kissinger brought to the Arab world his effort to overcome Middle East cease-fire problems and to promote the start of full-scale peace negotiations. He received a military honor-guard welcome in Morocco. American officials accompanying Kissinger cautioned against any spectacular breakthroughs during his talks in Morocco and other Moslem countries he plans to visit. (More on Page 2.)

Israeli Charges Sidestepped

Washington — The Nixon administration sought to sidestep Israeli charges that Egyptians were massing forces for an attack and that Egypt and South Yemen were blockading Israeli-bound vessels at the entrance to the Red Sea. George Vest, the newly appointed State Department spokesman, said he was "not aware that we have special information that would point to the fact that we are on the brink of war."

'Complete Disclosure' Requested

Washington — Sen. Peter H. Dominick, a conservative Republican of Colorado, who has been a stanch supporter of President Nixon, called on the President to make "complete disclosure of all information" about the Watergate investigations. "Nothing short of complete disclosure will be adequate to restore the confidence of the American people," Dominick said in an unusually strong speech to the Denver Bar Association.

More Phone Taps Revealed

Miami — William D. Ruckelshaus, who was fired as deputy United States attorney general by President Nixon two weeks ago, disclosed that telephone wire taps were placed on Nixon administration officials and possibly newsmen who were not included in the previously reported 21-month effort that President Nixon has said was intended to stop leaks of classified information to the press.

White House Balks At Request

Washington — The White House balked at Egil Krogh Jr.'s request that he examine documents of the "plumbers" unit he directed at the time of the Ellsberg break-in in 1971, his lawyer said. Krogh, a former White House aide, has been indicted for his role in directing the break-in and subsequent cover-ups.

Donald Segretti Sentenced

Washington — Donald H. Segretti was sentenced in Federal District Court in Washington to six months in prison for his efforts to disrupt the 1972 Democratic presidential primary in Florida. He could have received a maximum sentence of three years in prison and a $3,000 fine. In the same courthouse, an assistant federal Watergate prosecutor told the court that John W. Dean III, the former White House counsel, had admitted that he had destroyed two notebooks and an address book that belonged to E. Howard Hunt Jr., a convicted Watergate conspirator. (More on Page 1.)

Combat Wasn't As Arduous

Washington — A few days ago, former Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., his eyes red from lack of sleep and his face drawn with fatigue, observed that he had never known military combat to be as arduous as being President Nixon's righthand man in recent weeks. As the President's troubles have worsened, his tendency to rely for advice and help on a small circle of men seems to have increased, and his chief advisers appear to be Haig, Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, and Secretary of State Kissinger.

Newspaper Guild Strikes

New York — The Newspaper Guild struck the Daily News in a contract dispute, but reached a tentative two-year agreement with the New York Times a few hours later. The bargaining committee of the guild unit at the News rejected what the management said was its "final offer" shortly before 7 a.m. Monday. As a result of the strike the News' first edition did not appear on the streets.

Kissinger Flies To Rabat

By The Associated Press

World News

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Rabat, Morocco, Monday night on the first leg of a peace mission to the Middle East as Arab leaders sought to close ranks in a flurry of diplomacy.

First on Kissinger's agenda was a late-night meeting with King Hassan II to discuss the precarious cease-fire that stopped the fourth Arab-Israeli war.

Several hours of talks and a luncheon were planned Tuesday before Kissinger flies on to Tunis for a brief stopover and a meeting with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba in his tour of Arab capitals.

Kissinger was due in Cairo late Tuesday.

The three main parties to the Middle East conflict — Israel, Egypt and Syria — have warned that combat could erupt anew unless diplomacy can be made to work.

The Moroccan official press and government gave Kissinger an unusually warm welcome.

Premier Golda Meir returned home to Israel and reported Monday night to her cabinet in Tel Aviv on her talks with Kissinger and President Nixon in Washington. A government communique gave no further details.

She said her talks allowed her to plead the Israeli case, but did not resolve all differences between Washington and Tel Aviv. She said, however, she came away "knowing that the friendship between the United States and Israel remains the same."

Mrs. Meir promised to inform the Israeli parliament about the talks on Wednesday.

Israeli troops turned back Egyptian advances along the Suez Canal as the Egyptian 2nd army tried to lay mines around its enclave and a search party from the trapped 3rd army went looking for water.

After visiting Tunisia and Egypt, Kissinger will go to Jordan and Saudi Arabia. Following his tour of Arab capitals, he will visit Iran, Pakistan and China.

As Kissinger flew across the Atlantic, President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria was in Kuwait after visits to Cairo, Damascus and Baghdad, the Iraqi capital. Press reports said he persuaded Egypt and Syria to attend an Arab summit conference in Algiers.

The Libyan leader, Col. Moammar Khadafy, was in Damascus after similar visits to Cairo and Baghdad. He reportedly was trying to consolidate an anticease-fire bloc for the Arab summit.

Iraq, Libya and Kuwait rejected the U.N. Security Council cease-fire that was accepted by Israel, Egypt and Syria.

But Egypt and Syria suffered territorial losses in cease-fire violations between the first appeal Oct. 22 and and second truce Oct. 24. Both have threatened to resume war unless Israel quickly pulls back to the Oct. 22 lines.

Israel's diplomatic effort has concentrated on possible prisoner exchanges in exchange for an Israeli pullback and on an Egyptian withdrawal from the Sinai Desert, occupied by Israel in 1967 but partially retaken by Egyptians in the October war.

Mrs. Meir has said no one realy knows where the Oct. 22 lines were anyway. But Egypt maintains communiques issued by both sides on that day defined the positions adequately.

The Egyptian military spokesman said in Cairo that Egypt also handed a note to the U.N. truce force delineating the front as of Oct. 22. The pullback should be made immediately, he added, and said Cairo expected the subject to be covered when Kissinger arrives Tuesday night for talks with President Anwar Sadat.

There was speculation in the Middle East that Kissinger might also visit Damascus, where Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov has been conferring with Syrian leaders for three days.

Kissinger's misson also is aimed at deflecting the Arab oil weapon that already has struck at the United States for its support of Israel.

Arab oil producing states led by King Faisal of Saudi Arabia embargoed oil shipments to the United States and Holland during the October war and began 5 to 10 per cent monthly production cuts that have combined with an already tight energy situation to produce fears of a fuel crisis this winter.

Early Monday morning in Kuwait, 10 members of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries announced they were increasing production cuts to a minimum of 25 per cent.

This in effect represented an additional million barrels of oil a day, meaning the total reduction in Arab oil flow has now reached approximately five million barrels a day.

The United States gets only about 10 per cent of its petroleum imports from the Arab producers, but the proportion is rising. The cutbacks are aimed mostly at the Arabs' heavily dependent European and Japanese oil customers. Arab leaders hope the pressure will force them to persuade the United States to adopt Middle East policies they can live with.

"It will increase as time goes by," the Egyptian spokesman said in Cairo.

Roller Skate Precedes Stroller Stage

Expecting a family soon and feeling the burden was 5-year-old "Angel," a dachshund owned by Mrs. Marge Ostholthoff of Forest Hills, a suburb of Cincinnati, Ohio. Angel is a little unhappy about her new set of wheels, but her owner thought it would be helpful to give her a lift. With the help of a belt she attached a roller skate to Angel's underside. Angel was last seen rolling down the street. The next step may be a roller stroller for a fine fuzzy family.

Ford Wins Senators' Praise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford completed his testimony before the Senate Rules Committee Monday with no sign of any hitch developing on his confirmation as Spiro T. Agnew's successor.

Ford won praise from the senators for his answers during two days of close questioning on a broad range of subjects, many of them dealing with how he would act if he became President.

"You have a reputation for openness and honesty in reply," Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R. I., told the House Republican leader, "and it appears these hearings justify it."

The hearings are the first ever held in Congress on a vice presidential nominee. The procedure for filling a vacancy in the vice presidency is spelled out in the 25th amendment, which was brought into play for the first time by Agnew's resignation.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Rules Committee, plans to hear other witnesses, and the House Judiciary Committee also will hold hearings before the House and Senate vote on confirmation.

Mindful of the events that led to Agnew's resignation, Cannon completed the examination of Ford by asking what he said was probably the most important question of the hearing.

"Is there anything in your background, anything you have ever done or have knowledge of, the exposure of which could possibly subject the American people to another disappointment or disillusionment?" Cannon asked.

"Not to my knowledge," said Ford. "I have searched my conscience, my records and myself, and I know of nothing."

Ford was questioned again about his relationship with Robert N. Winter-Berger, a former Washington lobbyist who has written a book he calls "an insider's view of corruption in Washington."

The book contains numerous references to Ford, with whom Winter-Berger became acquainted through mutual friends in Michigan. Ford, who told the committee previously he was "duped" by Winter-Berger, denied all allegations of wrongdoing cited in the book.

"It is a completely inaccurate, demagogic bunch of words that, in my opinion, don't deserve publication," Ford said.

Winter-Berger is scheduled to be questioned by the committee in a closed session Wednesday.

The committee also plans to hear secret testimony from Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker of New York, whom Ford visited at Winter-Berger's suggestion.

In response to other questions, Ford said if he became President he would keep Henry A. Kissinger as Secretary of State, and that he would have done the same thing Elliot L. Richardson did and resign as attorney general if he had been forced to break a commitment. Richardson quit rather than carry out Nixon's order to fire Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

Higher Balance Eyed For Emergency Fund

. . . Is $500,000 Really Enough?

From Press Reports

A state civil defense spokesman said Monday the time might be right to increase the average balance of the governor's emergency fund upwards from $500,000.

"I think we need to reconsider whether $500,000 is enough," said spokesman Burl Johnson. "We might have to go to $750,000."

Johnson made that assessment of the emergency fund balance during a hearing conducted by the Legislature's Revenue Committee. The hearing was designed to probe the effectiveness and adequacy of the fund.

Johnson said it was his idea in the first place that only $500,000 was needed in the fund primarily because there is only a period of a few months, since 1971, that the Legislature is not in session each year.

2 Separate Funds

Prior to that there were actually two separate funds from which the governor could disburse emergency money and because the Legislature met every other year the average balance was kept at about $1 million.

Johnson said the $500,000 balance was felt adequate because the state only needed a disaster in which $500,000 worth of damages were necessary before the federal government stepped in.

But recently Johnson said the call for federal funds has increased and now the federal government requires damages to public facilities to top $1 million before it will swing into action.

Johnson also reported to the committee that floods in southeast Nebraska last month apparently caused less crop losses than originally projected, but somewhat more in losses to public property such as roads and bridges.

Earlier estimates which led to a disaster declaration in the area were that the floods and related weather problems caused $35 million in damages, of which about $25 million were agricultural.

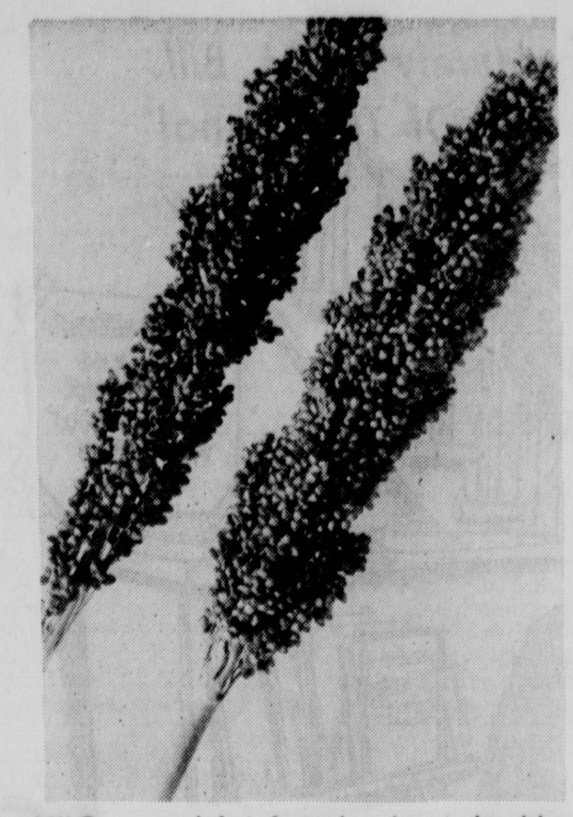

Estimate Reduced

Crop salvage has reduced the agricultural figure to around $16 million, Johnson indicated.

Crop losses now are figured at $12.9 million, he said. Damage to other farm property is figured at about $1 million, with land damage from erosion at about $1.6 million. Relatively small losses to livestock and stored grain were indicated.

Initially, the loss from damage to public structures, mostly roads and bridges, was figured at $2.8 million, but it now appears that total will be closer to $4 million, Johnson said. The figure will be refined after inspection teams complete two weeks of survey work late this week, he said.

Urban home and household losses from the flood have been calculated at $1,386,000, of which about $1.2 million occurred at Beatrice, he said.

Test Grain Sorghum Resistant To Fungus

It may be possible to breed into commercial grain sorghum varieties resistance to the common field fungus that is turning this year's crop black, according to Dr. Max Clegg, University of Nebraska-Lincoln sorghum physiologist.

Clegg found among some experimental crosses two related lines of the same maturity, one of which is badly infected by the Alternaria fungus, the other hardly showing any infection.

The two have the same male parent, which is not resistant, indicating that resistance to the fungus is a trait carried by the female, Clegg said.

Clegg is one of a team of NU scientists involved in a long-range program studying the physiology of grain sorghum in an effort to learn how in increase yields.

The research is partially supported by the Rockefeller Foundation, which is interested because grain sorghum is the primary human food in many countries.

Grain sorghum yields have reached a plateau and have been lagging behind improvement in yields of corn and wheat, Clegg said.

Row Crops Except Corn Just About All Harvested

By The Associated Press

Three solid weeks of good drying and harvesting weather have permitted Nebraska farmers virtually to complete their harvest of all row crops except corn, government observers reported Monday.

And even the corn harvest is farther along than normal for this time of year, according to the weekly crop review of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

About 45% of corn has been picked, under last year's 50% but ahead of the normal 35%. Moisture content dropped one point last week to 21%.

The grain sorghum and soybean ingathering is 95% completed, and nearly all sugar beets have been dug.

The 95% sorghum harvest figure compares with 50% last year and a 70% average for the date. Moisture content at 15% is one point below the level a week ago.

The soybean harvest is ahead of last year's 90% completion figure for the date. Moisture content remains at 13%.

Wheat conditions declined somewhat last week, and late plantings need more growth before winter, the division said. About 52% of the counties list the wheat condition as good, 28% fair, and 20% poor.

Precipitation throughout the state during the past week included:

High Court Ponders Hauling Rates Case

By United Press International

The State Supreme Court took under advisement Monday, after oral arguments, the question of whether the Nebraska Public Service Commission can set minimum rates for livestock haulers.

Before the high court is an appeal of a decision by the commission that it lacks jurisdiction to set rates.

However, James Ryan, attorney for the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association, noted that the attorney general has indicated the commission does have jurisdiction.

"Our position is exactly the same as the attorney general's," Ryan told the court, which this term is meeting in two divisions using district court judges to fill out the pair of panels hearing cases.

Attorney Richard Peterson, however, said the question is for the Legislature to decide.

Peterson said the Legislature has the power to establish rate classifications for regulatory purposes as well as grant exemptions if it wishes.

But Ryan said if that was the case then the Legislature could do away with the commission despite constitutional provisions establishing it.

Toyota Tells Plans

Lima, Peru (AP) — Toyota Motor Co. announced it will establish a $50 million automotive complex in northern Peru. It will be the firm's largest manufacturing establishment on the South American continent.

Stephens, Omaha UPI Writer, Is Found Dead

Omaha (UPI) — William A. Stephens, assistant bureau manager of the Omaha Bureau of United Press International, was found dead Monday in his apartment.

Stephens, 37, was found by a co-worker. He was pronounced dead at the scene by the fire department rescue squad.

Stephens, a bachelor, had been ill for the past two months and had been released from a hospital two weeks ago.

Stephens was a familiar figure at Nebraska sporting events, including the state high school track meets and state basketball tournaments. His UPI reporting also included the Statehouse, Legislature and general assignment.

Stephens was a 1961 graduate of the University of Illinois, where he majored in political science and was executive editor of the Daily Illini.

He joined the Lincoln bureau of UPI in July of 1961 and served one year as Fargo, N.D., bureau manager from 1962 until 1963.

After a short assignment in the Detroit, Mich., bureau, Stephens was appointed assistant bureau manager at Omaha in June, 1963.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Stephens, Cambridge, Ill. The body was taken to Crosby-Kunold Funeral Home from where it will be transported to Cambridge for funeral services.

Development Walk Readied

The 1974 Walk for Development has been scheduled for April 6, 1974, said acting coordinator of the walk, Michael Jank. Jank said the planning committee hopes to raise $15 to $20 thousand in 1974.

Next year's walk is being cosponsored by the Church Relief Overseas Project (crop) and the Young World Development.

Thone Says Legislation Property Rights Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Land use legislation now pending in Congress represents "the worst threat against the rights of private property I have seen since I came to Washington," Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., said Monday.

He referred to a bill passed by the Senate in June, and another, which he said "is much worse than the Senate version," which has been approved by a House interior and insular affairs subcommittee.

Thone said the effect of the legislation "would be to give the authority now held by your local zoning board to some bureaucrats in Washington."

Writing in his weekly news letter, Thone said the bills would give states money for land use planning.

"The legislation itself enumerates many criteria that each state plan would have to meet in order to obtain federal approval. The proposed legislation would also give representatives of 12 federal agencies power to draw up more 'guidelines, rules and regulations' that each state would have to obey to receive the federal handout of planning funds."

Priest Suggests Mercy Killing 'Easy Way Out'

Omaha (AP) — Medical professionals have been warned that euthanasia, or mercy killing, could become "any easy way out" for physicians who decide to "give up" on a seriously ill patient.

The warning came from a priest and psychiatrist, the Rev. Ned Cassem of Cambridge, Mass. He discussed "The Right to Die and Attending Problems" in Omaha.

Father Cassem said no person is qualified to decide on euthanasia unless he is expert on "what modern medicine can or cannot offer the patient."

Without that expertise, he said, a person might either "give up too soon" or "only prolong suffering."

He said he knew of no one who has been prosecuted for allowing someone to die.

More Omahans Riding Buses; Expansion Eyed

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Metro Area Transit authorities have reason to smile these days. With business picking up, they may need to reactivate some of the mothball bus fleet.

MAT Executive Director Jerome Erdman said more buses probably will be needed because daily riders are increasing and the company is committed to other route expansions.

From January through September, he said MAT carried 200,000 more passengers than during the same period in 1972. Through September of this year, the total was 5,554,000.

Forty-two older buses used by the firm's predecessors, Omaha Transit Co. and City Transit Lines of Council Bluffs, are in storage.

Erdman said he has been told that 25 could be put into service.

MAT has a current fleet of 165 buses, with 150 available daily. The remainder are either undergoing repairs or preventive maintenance work.

Popcorn Crop Outlook Good

North Bend (UPI) — Eastern Nebraska's annual popcorn harvest is looking good, manager Fred Eidam of the Blevins Popcorn Company's plant here said Monday. Ediam said the average yields were down, but the quality much better than it has been for a number of years. The Blevins firm, with terminals here and at North Loup, is the largest popcorn contractor in Nebraska. Eidam said it was still too early to tell how much damage the summer hail storm in the North Loup area did to the popcorn crop.

Cable Factory Dedication Set

Sidney (AP) — Site dedication ceremonies are scheduled here today for an Independent Cable Inc., cable factory. Gove. J. James Exon and Ron Mertens, director of the Nebraska of Economic Development, are scheduled to attend the ceremony along with company officials. The 100,000-square foot factory, which will produce telephone cable, represents a $3.5 million investment.

Status Of Women Symposium Planned

Hastings (AP) — A symposium on the Status of Women in Society will be held at Hastings College Friday and Saturday. Seven speakers from colleges and universities in the east and midwest will discuss topics ranging from no fault divorce, to "Women in Rebellion" and "Growing Up Female."

Norfolk Mothers March For Bond

Norfolk — Near 365 persons took part in the "Mothers' March" for the senior high school bond issue, facing voters here today. Mrs. Warren Wolfe served as committee chairman of the march volunteers who made a citywide distribution of brochures giving facts and telling of the need of the bond issue.

Scouting Need Told By McCollister

Omaha (AP) — Congressman John McCollister has suggested that the nation's capital could use more Eagle Scouts. He said "recent events in Washington make us more aware of the importance of training young citizens." McCollister said scouting helps youngsters grow in character and citizenship. The Omaha Republican spoke at Mount View Presbyterian Church at a ceremony for three Omaha youths being elevated to the highest scouting rank.

Grain Show Dates Announced

According to Duane Foote, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension agronomist, the dates and locations for the 1973 Nebraska grain shows and FFA crops contests have been set for: Dec. 11 — Grand Island, 4-H Building at Fonner Park; Dec. 13 — North Platte Extension Station; and Dec. 18 — Lincoln, Gateway Auditorium. Classes in the grain show are provided for corn, grain sorghum, oats, soybeans and wheat. Grain entries other than wheat are due Nov. 23, Foote said.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

From out of the wreckage that has been amassed, can the administration of President Nixon hope to salvage anything? With growing momentum, that is coming to be the central question facing the nation, epitomized in calls for the resignation of the Chief Executive.

We are not concerned so much with Mr. Nixon as an individual and what his place in history shall be, but rather, with the future course of the country as it relates to him. If Mr. Nixon could weather the storm that rages about him, the nation would survive, scarred but moving forward.

But if Mr. Nixon has gone beyond the point of political survival, then the nation cannot be allowed to fall with him. Now paramount in our thinking should be the fact that the nation as a whole is bigger and more important than any one man.

Does this mean, then, that the President ought to resign, as many sources are now urging him to do, or that, failing this, the Congress should vote impeachment and removal from office? The question is one to which we need to devote ourselves with maturity and deliberation.

It is by no means automatic that the resignation or removal of Mr. Nixon would mean an end to our problems. Such an eventuality would be the final blow in a long line of devastating developments and would leave a shaky foundation on which to proceed.

In the wake of such an action would undoubtedly be left a sizable reservoir of bitterness and political upheaval. While only 27% of the people in the latest Gallup poll approve of the way Mr. Nixon is handling his office, that is still a lot of people.

To use the parlance of the street, there may be Nixon haters in the land but there are also Nixon lovers. This and the fact that we have not yet had a full settling of public attitudes, opinions and reactions to our national affairs leave us with a mixed and unsettled future.

At the moment the tide is surely running against the President and is pushing hard for his resignation. There is no question that it would now take but very little more of the kind of things we have had in recent months to push the issue of his future into a state of no return.

One more startling development of any kind would leave Mr. Nixon with no honorable nor proper route to take than to resign his office. Perhaps we have already reached this point but our own inclination would be to wait a little while before becoming firm in this conclusion.

We believe that the President has made monumental administrative blunders, if nothing else, and that can be no real absolution of these things, but we believe, as well, that something might yet be salvaged from this administration which would be preferable to the total destruction of Mr. Nixon.

★

Total destruction has a devastating effect on people and we would not really welcome such a state of affairs in our political life. Mr. Nixon's destruction would tend to harden at least some elements of the public into a permanent state of bitterness.

In the years ahead we are going to need understanding and patience just as much as we will need integrity and high morality. We would hate to slip into a situation wherein not only Mr. Nixon but no one else would be able to effectively command a majority for governing the nation.

Our view of Mr. Nixon's handling of affairs is as dim as that of most people but the essential thing now is neither getting nor saving him, but rather, putting the nation back on the right track. A few more days or weeks one way or another for Mr. Nixon is not that crucial to our future. Therefore, we do not join at this moment in calls for his resignation.

Dutch Enjoy Driving Ban

In an effort to offset the 30% reduction in crude oil imports caused by the Arab oil embargo, the Dutch government last week instituted a ban on Sunday driving. Only emergency vehicles, taxis, and buses were exempt from the ban.

How did the Dutch take to it? We imagine there was some grumbling, but the Associated Press reported that "residents of the Netherlands turned a Sunday driving ban into an impromptu holiday, with children roller skating on the streets and teen-aged cyclists zig-zagging down the highways. Whole families of cyclists went for rides and in downtown Amsterdam, groups of young people rode around in shouting processions on bikes garlanded with flowers."

The Dutch seem intent on making the best of the situation, but we wonder if Americans, faced with something as unpopular and inconvenient as a driving ban, might not be a little more surly in their reaction.

We'll probably get a chance to find out, because a decrease in the consumption of all forms of energy will be a necessity and politicians somewhere down the line will have to face up to the fact that unpopular measures will have to be implemented.

The federal energy office is kicking around a plan — which the Nixon administration apparently does not wholeheartedly embrace — which among other things calls for additional taxes on fuel, rationing, the prohibition of pleasure driving, the early closing of schools and businesses and the control of maximum temperatures in office buildings. Congress will not want to take credit for such strict measures, but those in Congress who are knowledgeable in the energy field know that something unpleasant will have to be done in the area of decreasing energy consumption before the country is brought to its knees by a demand that far outstrips the supply. And we don't expect to see much dancing in the streets when it happens.

John G. Neihardt

Now and then, there comes to dwell on this earth a man of vision. An individual whose perception transcends the bounds of ordinary human confinement; who speaks to all mankind of the spiritual unity that underlies existence.

John G. Neihardt was such a man.

Neihardt the writer; Neihardt the man. To comprehend one was, in a sense, to comprehend the other, so faithfully did his works transmit the essence of their creator.

Those who came to know him personally realized this.

They were always there, it seemed, making the pilgrimage to his doorstep, to sit for awhile at the feet of the master.

Always there. Always welcome in the home of this uncommon common man.

Listening while that richly textured voice brought to life the words that he and others had written. Reliving with him the adventures that had marked his "heaped-up ninety years and more." Joined to him by laughter, as those twinkling eyes bore witness to the presence of an impishly joyous sense of humor.

Wishing to share him with all who would understand.

His life itself was a poem — conceived amidst this "amazing early adventure of ours;" polished to excellence by the doing; and transcribed for all eternity on the hearts of those he touched.

The poem has now been ended — consumed at last by the sacrificial fires of human mortality.

But one cannot forget the sense of renewal expressed by Neihardt as he told of an episode in which he — in an act of self-deprecation — committed the copies of his first-published poem to the destruction of a bonfire.

"I liked to fancy that somehow my little book was perfect now forever."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M. D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an electrocardiogram and was told I had a "strained heart." My doctor said no more mowing the lawn or snow shoveling and that I should rest when I get tired. He advised giving up my job as he felt my housework was enough. Could you explain this type of heart condition. The doctor said there is no medicine I can take for it. Do you agree? — L. M.

"Strained heart" is a somewhat ambiguous phrase, but the likeliest explanation would be that your ECG showed a decreased blood flow to the heart muscle. The muscle gets enough blood supply if you don't exert yourself, but it can't keep up if you put too much demand on it.

Hence giving up strenous activity makes sense. As to giving up your job, that would depend on how much energy your job demands and how tired you are at the end of the day. Your doctor would be in a much better position to judge that than I am, of course.

The important point is this: that sort of heart can keep serving you for a long time if you don't overtax it.

As to medication — that depends. If there is any suggestion of heart failure (shortness of breath, cough, swelling of ankles) digitalis may be in order.

If there is chest discomfort with activity or after meal, angina pectoris (chest pain) may require medication. Nitroglycerin long has been used to relieve these painful episodes, and sometimes other medications to dilate the coronary arteries temporarily and allow more blood to flow to the heart muscle.

More recently Persantine and small doses of aspirin have been used to ward off angina attacks by increasing the flow of blood by reducing the "stickiness" of platelets in the blood. Anticoagulants ("blood-thinners") may be used in some cases.

In any event, let your doctor judge that. Evidently you would not benefit by medication now. If you limit your physical activity to whatever your heart can support, you may postpone the time when, eventually, you may need medication to help it along.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it normal for light to hurt my eyes? I have had this problem for 11 years. I am 20 now. I can't stand light, sunlight or anything, shining in my eyes because it gives me a headache. Do you think I need glasses? Or is it just in my mind? — A. E. L.

Some people are more sensitive to light than others and resort to dark glasses.

But there are specific things that can cause photophobia (this intolerance of bright light). Refractive errors can cause it — meaning that you need glasses to correct your visual problems.

Diseases of the cornea and conjunctiva (outer eye coverings) can be involved. So can some inner eye disorders.

With this trouble existing for 11 years, you should have a thorough eye examination — not just to see whether you need glasses, which perhaps you do, but to see whether any of the rather uncommon disorders is present.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Doctor: I know this is not your field, but I can't find the answer anywhere else. I would like to know if it is safe to wear contact lenses for long periods — 16 to 18 hours at a time? My lens specialist says to wear them for eight hours, remove them for one hour, and so on. But almost all of my friends wear them from morning until night straight through. I would like to do the same, but I wonder if it is safe. — L. D.

Tolerance of contact lenses can vary considerably between individuals. Your friends who wear them for long periods were either not advised, or do so as a matter of convenience.

I do not wear contacts myself, but if I did, and a specialist advised me as yours has you, I think I'd follow his advice.

In any event, your eyes should be your best indicator. Prolonged wearing can create irritations and this would be a signal to take them off. Irritation might not occur at first, but only after prolonged use of the lenses.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son was recently diagnosed as having mulloscum contageosa. I was so stunned I forgot to ask our physician about how it spread, the outcome if not treated, etc. — Mrs. E. Z.

It's rare, rare infectious disorder of the skin, caused by a virus. Small round papules form (chiefly on hands and face). Material from these eruptions causes the disorder to spread. Treatment therefore is to remove the material from them and then cauterize the spot. This should be done by your doctor.

Peace Plan

Lincoln, Neb.

I would like to commend The Lincoln Star for its efforts in presenting both sides of the Mideast conflict, especially in its public opinion pages.

However, I found myself in complete disagreement with your editorial (Oct. 31) on the crisis. In your editorial, I believe you bypassed some of the very important issues which are basic to the historical conflict between Israel and the Arab states. To cite an example, you ignored the flight of the Palestinian people and the role they will have to play in any possible settlement. You also expect the Arabs to give up too much for nothing in return. For instance, you indicated that Israel will never accept a divided city of Jerusalem. I would like to remind you also that the Arabs don't like Jerusalem to be divided. After all, the Holy City and all of Palestine belonged to the Arabs before the creation of Israel in 1948.

A sensible solution, in my opinion, which I think would be fair to both Arabs and Jews might contain the following elements:

(1) Israel should abide by U.N. resolutions which have always stated that the Palestinian people should be given the right of self-determination. This implies that those Palestinians who want to return to their homes should be allowed to do so and fair compensation should be offered to those who decide to stay elsewhere.

(2) All occupied Arab lands taken by Israel in the 1967 war should be returned to their rightful owners. (3) An international guarantee for all Mideastern states to live in peace and secured borders.

Only by adopting such a plan, in my opinion, will there be a chance for a durable and lasting peace in the Mideast.

Caril's Freedom

Lincoln, Neb.

Every now and then the papers are concerned with the Caril Fugate case. Perhaps there are a lot of heartbroken citizens who oppose freedom for this girl who accompanied Charles Starkweather on his wild ride of death — but not oblivion. There was always the nagging question of "why?" for the reason behind such wanton killings? The Fugate family were his victims, so Caril might be grieving, too.

However, the indignation of those who oppose her parole may be justified. In the 15 or more years Caril has been imprisoned at York, have conditions improved in Nebraska so noticeably that Starkweather, Pope and other mass killers of this world will not kill again? What about jobs, living conditions and housing? Is the Lincoln community really safe for democracy, or wide open to crime and vandalism? Would release put this white-washed lamb among wolves?

The reformatory has stressed deportment, labor and Christianity. Would similar releases put confessed criminals back into the field with women who have struggled against poverty and unfair labor practices for years without success?

Would freedom make this young girl a better woman, or after she sees it like it is — no criticism of blacks, deviates, liars, thieves, by law or sentiment? Will she be sorry or just cleverly brain-washed?

If all the accusations against President Nixon should possibly be proven true, I still would prefer his actions as president rather than accept the Democratic nominee (George McGovern) as President of the United States.

If we amended the Constitution so that it said: "All legislative powers granted under this Constitution shall be exercised by a Board of Directors of the United States which shall also have full power to hire and fire all executive officers of the United States," that board in this present situation could relieve Mr. Nixon forthwith without preferring any nasty charges against him and at once appoint the persons who, in their opinion, were the best available for the various (and all too many for any one person to perform) jobs now piled high on the President's desk.

Shall we not discuss doing it?

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

One Wish Book's Spectacular Scope

NEW YORK — Old-timers cherish fond memories of the day the mail-order catalogue arrived — and how the whole family fought over who got to look at it first. In our house we have the same trouble.

But the catalogue we fight over is not to be believed.

To begin with, I don't know how we ever got on this particular mailing list. Some computer goofed somwhere along the line, because when it comes to being prospective customers, we are definitely wrong numbers.

This "dream book" is called Holiday House International, and it's a full-color brochure listing palatial homes for sale. Obviously for millionaires only. It arrives mysteriously four times a year and four times a year we drop everything and drool.

Talk about how the other half lives!

Take the opulent Florida house on the cover, for instance. (I'm speaking rhetorically, of course. To really "take" it, you'd need $1,800,000.)

Marble floors and baths . . . hand-carved pecan staircase . . . crystal chandeliers . . . oak-paneled library . . . breakfast room . . . family room . . . billiard room . . . and a domed gazebo with marble columns on the pool terrace. You get the idea.

For your million, eight, they throw in the furnishings: collector's antiques, Orientals, silk draperies, the works. A "champagne house," they call it. Those of us on beer budgets can't even afford a taste.

Or, for two million francs (around $440,000) you can have your very own farm in Nice, France. Sales pitch: "200 acres surrounding a charming old farmhouse, with time-mellowed terra-cotta stones and tiles, and terraces basking in warm Mediterranean sun." (Sigh.)

Then there's a 197-acre lemon ranch in California for $1,112,000. For that you get a ranch house, guest cottage, foreman's "residence," stable, corrals and even a windmill. "On a clear day," it says, "you can see the coastline."

Trouble is that Los Angeles doesn't have many clear days and it would come out to about $100,000 a peek.

Bing Crosby's Palm Desert pad, where President Kennedy slept twice, is listed, too. For $395,000 they'll include composer Jimmy Van Heusen's house next door.

For $1,500,000 you can become a New York farmer with 570 acres fronting a lake. And when the chores are done you can rock on the front porch of the 100-year-old colonial mansion and contemplate the evils of suburban development.

"This lovely domain," says the magazine, "offers an exquisite life fast diminishing in the modern world." Then it throws in the clincher: "But it also offers the future option to forsake the solace, go with the trend and develop the superb site." (That's one way to pay off the $1,500,000, all right.)

Well . . . so it goes. A 30-minute browse through this heady stuff and you know what the publisher means when he says: "For those with the means, indulge yourself. For those with the dreams, enjoy yourself."

ANTHONY LEWIS

The Special Prosecutor

WASHINGTON — For reasons going back centuries in Anglo-American legal history, we have an adversary system of justice in this country. The premise of that system is that truth is most likely to emerge, in a court of law, from an open clash of conflicting interests. It is not the only possible view; other cultures differ. But it is ours.

Under the adversary system, lawyers are required to devote themselves wholeheartedly to one side of a controversy. A lawyer may regularly represent some client; but if that client is sued by another party with whom the lawyer also has connections, his duty is to withdraw. Legal ethics say that he must not put himself in a situation where his loyalties might be — or might appear to be — confused.

That is the difficulty that clouds the Nixon administration's appointment of Leon Jaworski as special prosecutor. It is impossible for the ordinary citizen to believe that a man who owes the most basic loyalty to one side in a courtroom, the loyalty arising from appointment, can take a position wholeheartedly adversary to that side.

Right now President Nixon's lawyers are arguing in Judge John Sirica's courtroom that there are good reasons for the non-existence of two White House tapes. The public interest requires the most rigorous cross-examination of those claims. The special prosecution staff appointed by Archibald Cox is presently cross-examining. Would there be public confidence if the job were assumed by someone chosen at this point by the very people under challenge?

Most of a prosecutor's work is not in the public eye of the courtroom, and if anything is concealed, part of the job even more urgently requires a committed adversary relationship. What evidence to demand, what lawyers to assign, what compromises to accept — such decisions are crucial. Cox got into trouble by insisting on evidence withheld as "presidential papers." Can the public believe that a Nixon administration appointee will resist the administration's blandishments in the same resolute way?

The circumstances of Jaworski's appointment make the problem the more acute. Cox was chosen by Elliot Richardson and given explicit independence in rules that were written into the code of federal regulations. Jaworski was named with White House approval after the shattering of those rules.

Moreover, his appointment has the look of a characteristic Nixon move to head off unwelcome congressional action by a fait accompli. That impression is strengthened by the frantic effort to have Senator Saxbe confirmed as attorney general before Congress can deal with legislation to create a genuinely independent special prosecutor.

A lawyer of the greatest probity could not function under those conditions. That is the view of, among others, close colleagues of Leon Jaworski at the bar — men who admire and respect him deeply but think he would be in an impossible position.

With his lifetime of litigating experience, Jaworski may well come to that conclusion himself. His duty then would be to withdraw. It would not be easy, but it would be the course of honor.

There is undiminished support in Congress for the creation by statute of a special prosecutor entirely independent of the president — one named by the courts. That is the real issue on which the next phase of the battle to discover the truth of Watergate and the other political crimes of recent years will be fought.

☆ ☆ ☆

The idea of judicial appointment raised some early constitutional doubts, the concern being that it might violate the separation-of-powers concept. On reflection, those doubts have faded in the relevant congressional committees. Leading constitutional authorities have supported the legislation, on two broad grounds that deserve at least brief statement.

First, there is uncommonly clear authority in the text of the Constitution for precisely this kind of appointment by the courts. Article II, Section 2 says that "Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers, as they think proper, in the president alone, in the courts of law or in the heads of departments."

That explicit language led the Supreme Court in 1879 to uphold a statute vesting in the courts the appointment of election supervisors. Professor Paul Freund of Harvard, who is widely regarded as the country's leading constitutional scholar, makes the point that such election appointments are much more remote from the usual business of courts than prosecutors. Indeed, a long-established law directs federal judges to fill interim vacancies in the office of United States attorney.

Second, and more broadly, the Constitution of the United States is not a theoretical document, a closet drama. It has always been read to meet the practical necessities of government, and there could hardly be a need more obvious than to avoid having a suspected president pick the person to investigate him.

"The constitution is not a suicide pact," Justice Robert H. Jackson once said. Chief Justice Marshall put the same thought more elegantly a century earlier. The Constitution, he said, was "intended to endure for ages to come, and, consequently, to be adapted to the various crisis of human affairs."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Husband's Papers Indicate Dishonesty

By ROBERT PETERSON

QUESTION: — "My husband died last year and in going through his papers I've come upon a number of items indicating he was not completely honest. There's a letter to a lawyer trying to work out a deal to dump the partner who helped him start the grain business that gave us a good living. There are some letters suggesting he tried to evade income taxes on a capital gains project. And there are six letters from women he apparently knew intimately. I'm so choked up about this I feel I must pass it on to our two daughters. They adored their father but don't you agree they should know the facts?"

ANSWER: — If youi're choked up, why do the same to your daughters? Spilling the beans will simply mean this planet has too additional people who feel badly. Your husband is gone now and his wheelings and dealings should be a dead issue. Remind yourself that if he were here to comment on the papers you've found he might have a rational explanation for much of it.

☆ ☆ ☆

QUESTION: — "I'm 60 and a little heavy in the seat and hips, but I love to swim. In the past I've always worn very long, conservative swimsuits. But last summer I saw a bikini in a department sotre and decided to try it. My husband says I look awful in it, but it makes me feel younger and more agile. I not only wear it for swimming but occasionally wear it when doing housework. But when my married daughter came by and saw me pushing the vacuum cleaner in my bikini she was shocked. She seems to think it is not only immodest but in very poor taste for a woman my size. What do you say?"

ANSWER: — I subscribe to the notion that we should dress to please others. If your husband and daughter don't enjoy seing you flabbing about in a teeny bikini intended for trim little fannies you should cease and desist.

☆ ☆ ☆

QUESTION: — "My husband used to be a leather merchant and I'm a connoisseur of snappy footwear. But every time my foot doctor sees my spike heels he says I have no business torturing my feet and risking a fall. Isn't my morale worth a few pinched toes and an occasional wobble?"

ANSWER: — If your morale needs perking it's safer to do it with hats and jewelry. A chief cause of broken bones, particularly hip fractures, is unsure footing. An older woman shouldn't sacrifice the safety of a firm foundation for the slippery beauty of a high-heeled shoe.

QUESTION: — "My husband is a retired insurance salesman and follows me around the house like a cocker spaniel. A dozen times a day he reminds me that he's nearly 70 and doesn't have 'much longer.' How can I convince him he's got a lot of good years ahead of him?"

ANSWER: — Insist that he go back to work. And if he says there are no jobs take him by the arm and help him find something productive to do. It's obvious he isn't the type who knows how to use leisure time. When he's settled again in a useful, challenging job — even if it's volunteer chores at the local hospital or writing publicity for the Community Chest — there's a good chance he'll drop the doggie routine and snap back to normal.

300 Defenders Said Killed Or Captured

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese assault force which seized two government base camps near the Cambodian border may have killed or captured most of the 300 defenders, the Saigon command said Monday.

But the semi-official newspaper Dan Chu said the government sent up to 3,000 reinforcements to the battle area, and they were pounding Communist troop concentrations and supply lines with artillery and air strikes. It said South Vietnamese planes were encountering large numbers of ground-to-air missiles.

Radio Saigon reported the reinforcements made contact with survivors of the two base camps, who told them at least 100 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in Sunday's battle, one of the most savage since the Jan. 28 cease-fire.

A South Vietnamese transport plane crashed from unknown causes while ferrying reinforcements to the battle zone, killing all 25 soldiers and the four crewmen aboard, the command said. It also reported the assassination of several government hamlet chiefs and terrorist bombings in scattered parts of the country.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, Saigon's chief military spokesman, said it was feared government casualties at Bu Bong and Bu Prang camps would be similar to those suffered when the Le Minh base in the central highlands was overrun Sept. 22. Some 280 soldiers and dependents were killed or captured in that assault.

Hien told a press briefing the attacks marked a "period of transition for the enemy before he launches an offensive."

Bu Bong and Bu Prang are within a mile of each other in Quang Duc province, 125 miles northeast of Saigon. Survivors from the approximately 150-man garrison at Bu Bong withdrew into the jungle Sunday afternoon "under extreme pressure from overwhelming enemy forces," Hien announced.

Field reports indicated they suffered heavy casualties and lost some armored vehicles fighting their way out. It was difficult for their tanks to move through the jungle, Hien said.

He reported at least one full regiment of Hanoi's 9th Division took part in the attack, led by 20 tanks, the largest number committed to a single battle since the cease-fire.

How Much Will It Cost?

You ask this whenever you make a purchase, and there's certainly nothing the matter with asking it when you make funeral arrangements.

You shouldn't have to overspend to get the help you need and deserve at life's most difficult time.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Tuesday

Aries women can be quick-tempered, strong-willed and can insist that their way is the right way. These women also are attractive and do have a talent for putting across their ideas. Many have difficulty with Aquarius men, although they are attracted to them. Aries women are drawn to Leo men but the relationship is fiery and often begins and ends in a flash. Taurus and Libra men find the Aries woman intriguing and the woman reciprocates. Gloria Swanson, Joan Crawford and Bette Davis are three celebrities who exemplify many characteristics of the classic Aries woman.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Family council could be on agenda. You settle problems, outline programs — much occurs through spontaneous but secret confab. Means discretion is featured. Cancer individual plays key role. Make concession to older individual.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Social activity is featured. Means you make contacts, exchange views and enjoy being with people. Come out of shell. You receive compliments. You gain by experimenting. Sagittarian could figure in prominent way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emphasis is on getting down to business. You deal with heart of matters. Chips are down and results are evaluated. Be specific and thorough. Scorpio, Leo persons could play significant roles. You get chance to demonstrate abilities."

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are in position to obtain answers. Key is to ask questions. Don't limit yourself. Door could be open to long-range opportunity. Promote self-esteem. Persons who previously were reticent now will "open up."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): One who cares attempts to make you comfortable. One who couldn't care less imposes on you. You have choice between intrigue or happiness. What you choose now will determine much of your future. Be mature!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may be involved in romantic situation. Glamor is present and the clandestine is featured. This would be great time for TV appearance. Illusion, behind the scenes — these also are keynoted. Pisces is likely to be featured.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Practical efforts pay dividends. You get what you go after — you have added pressures, responsibilities. But you also have chance to hit jackpot. You get credit for what you do and chips fall in place. Success is indicated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Nothing is halfway — it is all or nothing. You end or begin a relationship, no in-between. You start or finish. Climate is one of extremes. Know it and be ready. Don't stall. Decide. By very act of decision, you set positive vibrations in motion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): There is some tearing down for purpose of reconstruction. Nothing is likely to remain the same. Revisions are order of day for you. Know it and throw aside false pride. Improve. Refine. Perfect. You'll be happier, perhaps wealthier, as result.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Family situation can be loads of laughs but also complicated. Know when to draw line. You do have life of your own — live it and be mature. Get rid of security blanket. Sucking thumb won't solve grown-up problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If willing to experiment, you win. Accent is on personal possessions, investments, valuables. Sagittarius, Gemini persons figure prominently. You will get what is owed. But many will want you to outline what you give for value received.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Cycle high — you can get across special view, style. Refuse back seat. Come forward. Take initiative. Highlight willingness to take chance on abilities. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio persons could figure prominently.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have unusual voice, you are passionate, have sweet tooth and seldom do anything in lukewarm manner. You may now be trying to do too much at once. Taurus, Libra persons are drawn to you. You are persuasive, somewhat spoiled in sense that you usually win your way. In December, you will be facing some forthright issues and you will overcome.

Bid Advertising Law Applicable To Fuel Buys

By The Associated Press

The state law which requires counties to advertise for bids on road materials or supplies where the cost is more than $2,000 applies to purchases of gasoline and similar fuels, the Department of Justice held Monday.

Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer's opinion responded to an inquiry from Dawson County Atty. Willard Weinhold of Lexington.

Meyer's opinion, prepared by assistant Atty. Gen. C. C. Sheldon, said there appear to be no Nebraska court cases on the point. "However, in decisions from other jurisdictions it has been uniformly found that things such as gasoline, oil, lubricating devices and other articles or goods used in the prosecution of highway or road work do constitute materials or supplies."

The opinion said also a county board is allowed to reject all bids on fuel if deemed unjustly high. Thereafter, the county may negotiate a contract for the purchase of fuel.

Rationing To Start

Manila (AP) — The government will start rationing gasoline in about two weeks, officials sources said after taking a survey of vehicles in the Philippines.

Lieske Said Looking For School Administration Job

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gus Lieske, director of the executive Office of Management and Budget and the most controversial member of the Exon administration, has reportedly put out feelers for job offers.

Specifically, Lieske is interested in the presidency of the Western Nebraska Technical Community College Area and the University of Nebraska post formerly held by Howard Neville, executive vice president for administration, according to reliable sources.

A search committees is currently considering applicants for the Western Nebraska post.

'Haven't Applied'

Responding to the reports, Lieske said, "To my knowledge no one has put my name in nomination for either post, and I certainly haven't applied.

"I really haven't thought about it.

"It (the NU post) is one of the better jobs in higher education in the country. I'm sure they have plenty of qualified applicants," he said.

However, when asked whether he was satisfied with his present post, Lieske would only comment, "It's a nice atmosphere."

As to whether he would take either of the posts if offered, he called it "useless" to speculate on the possibility.

"That's like asking Connally if he would take over the vice presidency if Agnew resigned.

'Always Look'

"I suppose you would get the same answer if you asked me two years ago. If an opportunity comes along, I always look at it," he said.

Lieske earned the animosity of state senators and agency officials during his two-year tenure as director of the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) for his budget slashing and "arrogant" attitude.

In fact, during the 1973 Legislature, a bill was vetoed by Gov. J. James Exon which would have taken DAS away from the governor's control and presumably would have meant Lieske's termination. The bill was viewed by some solely as a "get Lieske" bill.

Sources also suggest that Lieske is running into difficulty in his job hunt as a result of his controversial status.

'Burned Bridges'

Lieske "burned too many bridges behind him" while he was DAS director, one source suggested.

"He just made too many enemies," the source said, "despite his brilliance."

Another said Lieske's departure would be "logical," since in his new post he is "like a man without a country."

Exon acted shortly after the 1973 session to remove Lieske from DAS by creating a special Office of Management and Budget under him with Lieske as its head. There was some unconfirmed speculation at the time that the action was intended to remove Lieske as a source of friction with the Legislature.

In namig Lieske to the new post, he explained the move was made because his talents were "too great" for him to be "bogged down" in administrative details. The shift was regarded as a promotion.

Lieske said the talk of his departure was probably "wishful thinking" on the part of some critics.

"This place (the Statehouse) really is a rumor mill. One guy probably said to another, 'I wish Lieske would leave.' The next thing you know everybody's saying I'm leaving," he said.

Square D Co. Sales Increase

Net sales by the Square D Company for the three-month period ending Sept. 30 were $96,926,100, compared to sales of $88,534,600 for the same quarter in 1972.

Net earnings for the third quarter were $7,905,600, or 34 cents a share, compared to $8,828,500, or 38 cents a share for the same quarter last year.

Net sales for the first nine months were $284,117,500. Net earnings for the period were $23,684,000, or $1.02 per share.

Panhandle Roads Still Hazardous

Road conditions remained hazardous late Monday in Nebraska's Panhandle following a weekend snowstorm in that area, the State Department of Roads reported.

Slushpacked and ice-covered highways were beginning to break up early Monday afternoon, but freezing temperatures later in the day brought back treacherous driving conditions.

Warner weather forecast for Tuesday and Wednesday is expected to improve the roads.

The mercury dropped to three below zero at Chadron early Monday for the state's low for the day.

Agribusiness Club Honors 4 For Service To Agriculture

The Nebraska Agribusiness Club honored four Nebraskans for public service to agriculture at its annual awards banquet here Monday night.

The four — Robert J. McPherrin of Stapleton, William B. Krejci of Fairmont, Rex Lathen of Grand Island, and Elton Berck of Lincoln — were presented plaques by Farmland Industries, Kansas City, Mo.

Short testimonial addresses were delivered by Duane Dietze, Lincoln Production Credit Association, on Berck; by Glenn Umberger, State ASCS official, on McPherrin; and by Dr. Glen Vollmar, chairman of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of Agricultural Economics, on Lathen and Krejci.

It marked the seventh year the club has carried out the awards program. The club is an informal organization of individuals interested in the healthy future of agriculture and agribusiness.

The awards were followed by an address by Dr. Orvin Burnside, NU professor of agronomy, on "Pest Management in North African Agriculture."

McPherrin, associated with a cow-calf operation on approximately 10,000 acres in Logan and McPherson counties, was cited as a leader in the application of sound conservation and technological practices in the ranching industry.

Krejci was described as an outstanding farmer and livestock feeder and "an effective and dedicated leader in community and agricultural organizations."

Berck, president of the Nebraska Farmers Union since 1957, was cited for his legislative efforts in behalf of farmers and ranchers.

Lathen, president and general manager of Grand Island radio station KMMJ, was honored for his dedication to promoting and defending agriculture.

Douglas County Seeking Funds For Three Homes For Youths

Omaha, Neb. (AP) — Douglas County has applied for $150,000 federal grant to set up three homes in Omaha for youths with behavior problems.

County Welfare Director Michael Healey said the funds are available and the county would put up $50,000.

The homes are designed to give courts an alternative to the Youth Development Centers at Kearney and Geneva, said State Welfare Director Lawrence Graham.

Neihardt Services Wednesday

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Funeral services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Memorial Funeral Home Chapel here for John G. Neihardt, Nebraska's poet laureate.

Niehardt, 92, died Saturday at the home of a daughter in Columbia.

Burial will be at Columbia Memorial Park Cemetery.

Nursing Fund Issue On Regents' Agenda

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents will be asked Friday to permit the College of Nursing to raise $250,000 to help build and equip the proposed new nursing building on the Medical Center campus in Omaha.

The request will be considered when the board meets at 9 a.m. Friday in the NU System Building at 3835 Holdrege.

Agenda materials released Monday show that the College of Nursing is proposing to begin a development program designed to raise the additional funds from private sources.

The federal government has provided $2.1 million for the building and the state has appropriated $1.3 million. "Implementation of the plans for the facilities and programs will require an additional $250,000 from private sources," said a Medical Center statement.

The development program, if approved, will permit the college to undertake a solicitation program among alumni and others, including corporations and foundations. The solicitation would begin Dec. 1.

The new building is to be constructed at 42nd and Dewey and will accomodate 700 students. The present building was originally intended to provide housing and classrooms for 150, said the Medical Center, but is now used by 478 students and faculty members.

In other matters, the board's agenda for the meeting includes:

—consideration of the report of the Hiram Scott College committee, which has concluded that university proposals would not warrant an NU takeover of the now-defunct Scottsbluff school.

—requests, once again, from Drs. Marvin L. Dietrich and George W. Orr to work part-time so they may perform abortions on their own time outside university facilities. Last month the board returned them to full time and told them to cease those outside activities.

—a Lincoln campus student government proposal to hire the law firm of Hamilton and German as attorneys for the "legal aid for students office." The attorneys would act as legal advisers, paid from student fees, but they would not defend students in court cases.

—a Lincoln proposal to merge the departments of women's physical education and men's physical education into a single department of physical education and recreation.

—another Lincoln campus request to change the name of the department of poultry science to the department of poultry and wildlife sciences.

—the resignation of James A. Rutledge, associate dean of the NU System Graduate College, to become dean of the graduate school at Northern Illinois University in Dekalb effective Jan. 1.

Jurisdiction Of Parking Is Ruled On

The attorney general's office held Monday the job of providing parking spaces is that of the superintendent of buildings and grounds and not the Legislative Council's executive board.

Gerald Vitamvas, deputy attorney general, said in short opinion the executive board does not have the authority to manage property — an executive branch function.

On the other hand, he said state law specifically gives that authority to the buildings and grounds superintendent, which is part of the executive branch.

The question of whether the executive board could get involved in providing parking was raised by Vincent Brown, clerk of the Legislature, in connection with land located near the Capitol Building.

Brown wanted to know if the board could raze buildings now located there so that parking facilities for legislative employes could be located there.

Phone Board Seat To Geist

James E. Geist, vice president of operations for the Lincoln Telephone Company, has been elected to the board of directors of the U.S. Independent Telephone Association.

Geist, elected at the 76th annual association convention in Miami Beach, has been with LT&T since 1947. He was named personnel director in 1968, and vice president in 1973.

Three To Hear Challenge To Obscenity Law

Three federal judges have been named to a three-judge court to hear a case involving a suit seeking to have the state's obscenity laws declared null and void.

The judges, named by Pat Mehaffy, chief judge of the Eighth Circuit, are U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom, U.S. District Judge Albert Schatz and U.S. Circuit Judge Donald Ross.

The suit, filed in October by Wes Van Winkle, manager of the Adult Book and Cinema Store in Lincoln, claims state statutes on obscenity "create a chilling effect" on his First and 14th Amendment rights.

Woman Hurt In Car, House Crash 'Good'

Cheryl Waite, 19, of 6835 Colby, was listed in good condition Monday at Bryan Memorial Hospital with injuries sustained in an accident Saturday in which a car struck a house at 300 So. 38th.

She was a passenger in an auto driven by Steven Dye, 22, of Omaha. According to police, Dye was westbound on M St. when he lost control of the auto struck a parked car and veered into the house.

Damage to the house was estimated at $5,000. Damage to the parked car was estimated at $100. Damage to the Dye auto was estimated at $1,000.

Dye was uninjured in the accident. A second passenger, Susan Steiner, of 3761 M, was treated and released from Bryan Memorial Hospital.

Kelley To Head Nebraska CLU

The Nebraska Civil Liberties Union elected James M. Kelley, Lincoln attorney, as president of the board of directors.

Other officers elected were Harriet A. Egertson, Colon, First vice president; Cella Quinn, Omaha, Second vice president; Charles Stephen, Lincoln, secretary; V. L. Vanstrom, Omaha, treasurer; and Nan Britt, Omaha, membership.

New members elected to the NCLU board of directors were Deana Finkler, Omaha; and Pat Lamberty, Omaha. Re-elected were David L. Crawford, Omaha; Patrick W. Healey, Lincoln; Charles Stephen, Lincoln; and V. L. Vanstrom, Omaha.

LES Said 'Prepared' For Winter

Lincoln should have enough electricity to make it through the winter without any blackouts, city lawmakers were told Monday.

Lincoln Electric System (LES) Administrator Walt Canney said, "We're generally prepared" to meet the energy crisis. He reported that the biggest question facing Nebraska is whether the Cooper nuclear plant becomes operational by January or February, as planned.

Canney noted that LES is promoting conservation of electrical energy and that he is considering changes in the building code ordinances to require additional insulation in construction of homes.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis asked if the rate structure should be changed since the rates seem to encourage use of electricity by charging lower rates as use increases.

Canney replied, "It merits some review, but it is not a panacea."

The rate structure is premised to make money, not solely to encourage the greater use of electricity, he said.

During the meeting with the LES Administrative Board, council members suggested board members meet with members of the Lincoln Transportation System board to discuss the purchase of electric buses in light of fuel oil shortages.

The LES board also reviewed its plans to share in planning costs for the power generating complex underway by the Missouri Basis Systems Group (MBSG).

In September, the board authorized a $200,000 expenditure to participate in studies to investigate construction of a mammoth power generating complex in southeastern Wyoming.

Canney said the MBSG is the forerunner of regional power pools around the nation.

Denton Man To Run For County Clerk

A 37-year-old Denton man, who has filed for Lancaster County Clerk on the Republican ticket, is the first person to file for the many county offices which are up for election in 1974.

John R. Wenzl, a real estate salesman for Action Realty Co., is seeking the GOP nomination for the office now held by Democrat Carl Hartmen.

In filing, Wenzl said that times have changed and he feels that the public should be given the opportunity to decide whether the office of county clerk should be elective or appointive.

He said that county government is losing respect because of a "succession of caretakers who resist the thought of constructive change."

Humane Society Director Says 692 Animals Killed In October

Humane Society Director Bernard Patton told City Council members Monday that most people don't believe him when he reports how many animals he has to "dispose of" each month.

During the month of October alone, it was 692.

In an effort to curb the city's growing cat and dog population and reduce the number of animals cremated, council members met with the Humane Society Board to discuss varying ways to tackle the problem.

One suggestion was to implement a subsidy program to encourage poeple to have their pets spayed or neutered.

Board member Ed Schwartzkopt said there is room at the animal shelter to conduct such operations on animals brought in, but that such a program would need the support of local veterinarians. Council members suggested a meeting be set up to discuss the problem.

Patton said the expense involved in having the operations done on pets is a deterrent and results in some people "dumping the animals" at the shelter.

Council members also voiced interest in stepping up licensing of dogs and cats, as required by city ordinance, as one means of eventually controlling the animal population.

Memorial Held For The Hoyts

Lincoln Star Special

Culbertson — An estimated 350 to 400 relatives and friends gathered here Monday to attend memorial services for Edwin and Wilma Hoyt of rural Culbertson.

United Methodist Church, where the couple were active members, was "filled to capacity" for the services, according to Larry Carpenter, McCook mortician.

Law authorities believe the Hoyts, prominent longtime residents of this vicinity, were victims of an apparent brutal slaying. The couple were last seen at a family dinner Sept. 23.

Meanwhile, an investigation into the deaths continues.

NU Moot Court Team Advances

One of the two moot court teams from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln has been selected to take part in national moot court competition at New York in mid-December.

The three-man team, composed of James Gordon of Lincoln, David Jacobson of Omaha, and David Jorgensen of Lincoln, placed third in the Regional Competition held in Kansas City behind two teams from the University of Missouri-Kansas City. Since only one team per school may attend the national competition, Nebraska was given the berth.

Neighbors Aid Ailing Farmer

Wilcox, (UPI) — An estimated 20 farmers in the Wilcox area turned out Monday to help a neighbor and "enjoyed every minute of it."

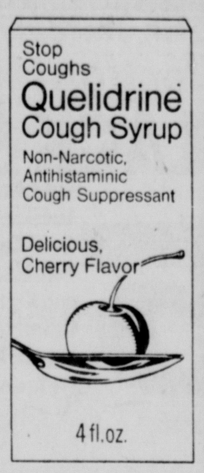

The farmers converged on the Russell Aspergen farm to harvest Aspergen's corn crop. Aspergen is seriously ill with cancer and is hospitalized in Hastings.

The farmers, manning 10 combines and 10 trucks, accomplished the job before noon.

Is It Easier To Get Into College?

Faced with declining enrollments many colleges are moving back application deadlines, actively recruiting students, and looking more favorably on young people who stay out of school for a year or two between high school and college.

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

As recently as seven years ago, many high school seniors who wanted to continue their educations at four-year colleges or universities were facing great problems as far as admissions were concerned.

Due to the post-war baby boom and the increased emphasis on higher education, applications for college admission reached an all-time high. And because of the heightened competition and the lack of available space, many graduating high school seniors were turned away from the schools they wished to attend.

Today, the picture has been altered drastically.

For a variety of reasons, the number of student applications nation-wide has dropped appreciably. According to Don Darnell, assistant principal in charge of student services at Lincoln Southeast High School, "beginning with the class of 1971 there was a sharp reduction in the number of seniors planning to attend four-year colleges. And the class of 1973 continued this trend."

He noted that, in 1966, 83% of Southeast's seniors applied for college admission. By 1973, this figure had dropped to 63%.

Additional changes he has observed during the past several years are a decrease in the number of students enrolling in colleges outside the state; a "sizeable" increase in the numbers enrolling in vocational-technical schools; and a substantial increase in the number of high school seniors seeking full-time employment immediately following graduation.

"This is what I've really noticed," Darnell said in reference to job-hunting seniors.

He cited nationally-published statistics as the primary reason for a declining interest in college admission.

"There doesn't seem to be much of a need for college graduates these days. There are a lot of Ph.D's walking around looking for work," Darnell stated.

"There's a feeling of instability when it comes to the employment of college graduates. Whereas trade schools are able to fill available jobs."

In addition, previously, "lots of kids went to college because of mom and dad," he explained, adding that there was a "social stigma" against those who didn't.

Darnell believes that such pressures do not influence students as much as they did formerly, and he continued, "I'm not so sure they (the students) aren't right. It's dumb for a kid to go to college just because someone says he ought to. There are a lot of kids who aren't college material."

This decrease in college applications, coupled with the fact that many schools expanded their facilities rapidly in the late 1960's, has put those institutions in something of a bind as far as enrollment is concerned.

These same factors are working to the benefit of the student seeking admission.

Darnell noted that, generally speaking, it's easier to gain admission to colleges now than it was several years ago, but he added, "It's a relative thing. It's easier to get in than it was ten years ago, but it still is difficult," especally where the more prestigious schools are concerned.

However in a number of other areas — such as applications deadlines and admissions procedures — the decrease in college enrollment has had a significant effect, according to several Nebraska college admissions officials.

Al Papik, director of admissions at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, observed that, because of information available to them, "the students are well aware that they can get into the majority of schools at a later date" than was previously the case.

In response to this trend toward later applications, UNL has moved its applications deadline back from July 15 to Aug. 1 for the first semester of 1974.

Ibrahim "Pappy" Khouri and Dave Schoonover, admissions directors for Doane College and Nebraska Wesleyan University respectively, agreed that students are now waiting longer to apply for admission to college.

Noting that, during the boom years, some students applied as early as their junior year, Schoonover said, "I don't think that today a student has to make a decision that early."

However, "there are some prestigious colleges that still have early deadlines," Khouri stated.

Schoonover said that Wesleyan receives the bulk of its applications between November and February. But he indicated that there may be some advantage to be gained, in the areas of financial assistance and good housing, from earlier applications.

Darnell said that counselors at Southeast still tell students that "to have a good chance of being admitted they should apply early."

What about the student who wants to stay out of school for a year — to work or to travel? Will he or she have a more difficult time being admitted to a college?

"We're getting more and more of these students," Papik observed, noting that in years past, there may have been some discrimination against them when they decided to apply for admission.

"Right now, colleges are looking at what is happening," he said. "They are trying to do something to help this type of student," such as keeping him on the mailing list until he decides to apply for admission.

"Many schools are adopting credit by examination and advanced placement" (procedures whereby students can, by demonstrating proficiency in a given field, receive college credit for courses they haven't taken).

Khouri indicated that Doane is happy to hold a student's admission and financial aid for a year, and he added, "It's a good thing sometimes for a kid to stay out," for a year.

According to Schoonover, the nation-wide drop in college enrollment has affected admissions procedures in yet another way.

"I think colleges are putting forth more effort to recruit students than at any time in the past," he said.

"The whole picture has changed. Students are no longer coming to us."

Khouri noted that there is "more and more competition (among colleges) — especially for the brighter students. The colleges are willing to do more" for potential applicants.

His opinion that "all colleges in the state are actively recruiting students" was echoed by Dr. Russell Spangler who serves as director of admissions for Union College.

Spangler said that this year, for the first time, Union has combined its admissions and recruiting personnel in one office in order to facilitate their quest for students.

At Southeast, Darnell has noticed that decreased college enrollment, and its attendant budgetary reductions, has caused many schools to cut the number of admissions people that go out in the field to recruit.

"Admissions are caught in a money crunch," he said. "We used to get from 75 to 80 college representatives visiting Southeast each year. Now we're lucky to get 35 or 40."

However, "even though we're not getting the numbers we did in the past, they're still getting to us," he added, explaining that schools now rely on mailing large quantities of information to high schools, and holding "educational planning nights" to which all city high school students are invited.

Will the quality of students in this country's institutions of higher learning change because fewer high school students are continuing their educations?

Schoonover speculated that "especially smaller colleges that are struggling to keep their doors open" may be inclined to take more "risk" applications than formerly.

And he added, "I think that, in the long run, this might affect them."

On the basis of figures compiled at UNL, Papik offered another view.

"You would have to assume that this (a change in the quality of students) would be correct. But the facts do not bear it out.

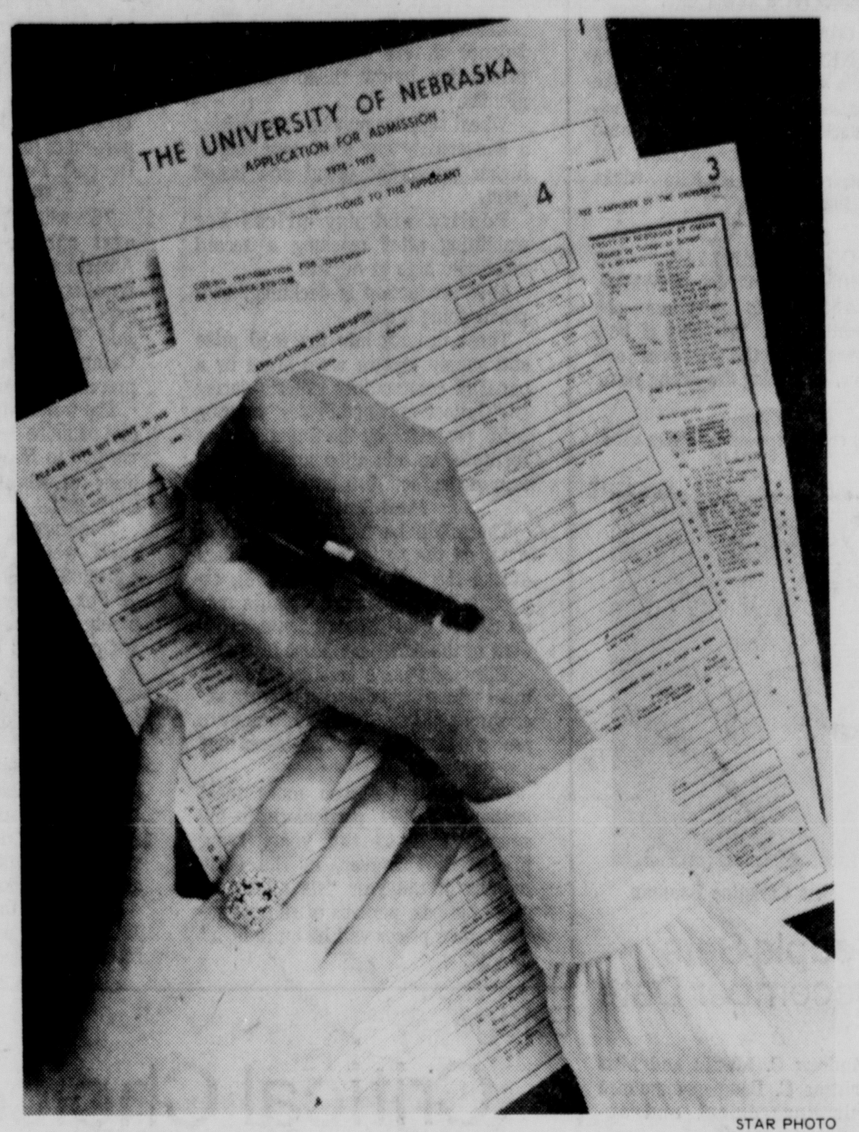

"The academic profile of our freshman class has remained fairly constant, even though the numbers are fluctuating. We frankly didn't think it would."

However, he explained that this may be due to the fact that at UNL there hasn't been a really significant change in the number of applicants over the past few years.

When asked if students should continue their educations beyond high school, despite the fact that jobs are often difficult to find, even for college graduates, Darnell responded in the affirmative.

Alluding to a number of alternatives that are open to students who do not want to attend a four-year college — technical or secretarial schools, junior colleges, etc. — he said, "With our technically complex society, youngsters should be encouraged to learn some salable skill.

"You can't function in this society without some sort of skill."

It's Music Or Love

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: My finance, a talented young man, plays the guitar in a small group, which up until now has played only for their own enjoyment. I have told him repeatedly that I didn't want him to play for the public, whether it be a concert, reception, or dance. He always assured me he wouldn't. Now the group is getting offers, and he wants to play professionally.

Maybe I sound selfish, but I want my husband home nights, so our children will know their father. Most musicians are gone nights and weekends, and have to play in Lord knows what kind of places.

I don't want to force him to make a choice between me or his music because I know how much he loves his music. Yet, I could never be happy as a musician's wife, no matter how successful he became.

I know many girls would be thrilled to have their husbands up on a stage, but I'm different.

STAGE FRIGHT IN WACO

DEAR STAGE FRIGHT: There can be no compromise here. If your finance loves music, and wants to make it his career, you are forcing him to make a choice. No man is as miserable as he who sacrifices doing what he wants most to do in order to please his wife. Unless he's the man who does what he wants to do, and has a nagging wife at his elbow reminding him of how miserable SHE is.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to the girl who thought she was getting too much attention from her father in law: She doesn't know how lucky she is. I once had the same problem, or thought I did. Then my husband died at an early age, and my father in law expressed his love for me. To make a long story short, I married my father in law. I was 30, and he was 60. We have had a wonderful life together and are still in good health. I am now 60, and he is 90.

So, don't put down the father in law. Chances are he is a lot like his son, only older.

HAPPY WITH PAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: You don't say where mother in law was when father in law "expressed his love for you," but if she was alive and kicking, shame on Pappy for having traded in his older model for a newer one.

Experts Give Supply Picture

Food Prices Forecast

Chicago — Meat supplies for the balance of 1973 will be ample, with prices far below those of recent months.

Wheat supplies may be approaching a dangerously low level, resulting in higher prices for bread and baked goods.

Poultry and egg prices are stabilizing after reaching a record wholesale high in August.

Milk production is declining, with prices going higher.

These insights into the food price and supply picture were given by a panel of commodities experts during an "Outlook for Food Prices" briefing held recently by the Super Market Institute, an education and research arm of the food distribution industry.

Meat Supplies

There will be "ample supplies of meat on the nation's retail counters during the last quarter of 1973, especially beef. But pork supplies may be tight," said Richard Lyng, president of the American Meat Institute.

With rigid price ceilings removed, meat prices have dropped sharply, according to Lyng. "Cattle feeders are now complaining about the losses they are suffering."

There will be even more meat available in 1974, particularly in the second half of the year, Lyng predicted. However, in the early months of the year "we might see some periods, perhaps of short duration, when prices will be quite high" he said.

Lyng predicted a stabilization of prices. "I think we can safely predict that consumers will be able to eat meat at prices they will be able to afford. Meat will not be taking a higher percent of the consumer dollar than in the past. Perhaps less."

High Wheat Prices

"We will be practically out of wheat next spring, and prices to the American consumer can and will go unvelievably high, unless reasonable export controls are instituted soon," said Bill O. Mead, chairman of Campbell Taggart, Inc., as he presented a less than happy forecast.

The world wheat situation is simply one of more demand than supply, according to Mead, who noted that the price of wheat has increased 23% since 1971.

This carries over to the grocer's shelf where bakery products are expected to increase by 20% this year.

"For the near term there will be plenty of bread and bakery products, but prices will be high," Mead said.

Poultry, Egg Prices

Poultry and egg production will be lower in 1973 compared to 1972 levels, according to Dr. Robert E. Wunderle, director of economic research of the National Broiler Council. There will be adequate supplies in the winter months and prices will be generally stable, with turkey prices declining after the Thanksgiving season.

He stated that the reduction in overall farm output is a result of record high feed prices and "the incompatibility of price regulations with raw agricultural product production."

Milk Prices Up

Milk production is declining, Dr. Georgle L. Mehren, general manager of Associated Milk Producers, Inc., said. He pointed to the government's inadequate price support measures in the face of "extreme increases in production costs on American dairy farms," import policies and the wage and price control programs.

"Dairy farmers are now reducing milk production," he said. "September is the eleventh consecutive month in which milk production in the U. S. has fallen below production in the corresponding month of the preceding year."

Milk production is down about 4% below last year's rate, and the longer-run implications of the squeeze on dairy farm profits will be felt for years to come, Dr. Mehren predicted.

"Too many farmers are discontinuing milk production. Too many dairy breeding cows are being sent to more attractive markets as butcher cows."

And he made no prediction that dairy prices might lower. For the dairy farmer, he said, "there is no alternative but to price milk at the farm at that level required to cover costs of all production inputs, including a reasonable return on his substantial investment."

Opening lead - eight of spades.

Declarer often has the choice between winning a trick in his own hand or dummy's. There is no magic rule to govern such situations — the right play depends on the circumstances.

Consider this deal where West led a spade and declarer could win the trick in either hand. His possible losers were a spade, a club and either one or two hearts.

It was clear that the two potential trump losers could be cut down to one by leading trumps from dummy toward his K-Q-10, because the bidding had marked East with the ace.

So declarer won the spade lead in dummy with the king in order to get the trumps going right away. Unfortunately, when he led a heart, East took the ace and returned the queen of spades. South played the ace and West trumped it. This proved to be fatal, for declarer still had to lose a spade and a club to go down one.

South was surely right in thinking the first trump lead had to come from dummy. But he was wrong in doing what he did. On the bidding, there was a tremendous danger that East had six spades and West consequently one.

In order to protect against this, South should have won the spade lead in his hand and entered dummy with a diamond to lead a trump. True, East would have taken the ace and returned a spade, but this would have proved ineffective.

West could ruff, but, in that case, dummy would follow low and the king would remain as a trick. South would lose a heart, a club, and the spade that West ruffed.

If West did not ruff the spade at trick four, dummy's king would win and South would again lose only a spade, a heart, and a club.

Declarer's first play made all the difference between winning and losing the hand.

Workers Strike In Several Cities

By The Associated Press

Walkouts by workers in key services — among them fire protection, newspapers, hospital care and air travel — hit a number of American cities Monday.

A strike deadline by New York City firemen was reset for 8:30 a.m. Tuesday as contract negotiations continued under court order. But in Milwaukee, Wis., National Guardsmen were called up to deal with what officials said was an emergency created by a firemen's work stoppage.

Hope that a strike against the New York Daily News would come to a quick end was expressed after the Times reached tentative agreement with the New York Newspaper Guild. The agreement was reached hours after the start of the walkout at the News.

Also in New York, 30,000 nonmedical workers went on strike at 48 private, nonprofit hospitals and nursing homes over the government's failure to approve a 7.5 per cent wage increase.

Trans World Airlines flights were canceled across the country by a walkout of flight attendants that began at midnight.

In Milwaukee, officials estimated that about 40 per cent of the city's firemen failed to show up for work Monday, about the same number as the day before. Their contract expired Saturday, and the "red flu" epidemic was seen as a pressure tactic aimed at city negotiators.

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, acting at the request of Mayor Henry Maier, called up about 350 members of the Guard to take over some firemen's duties. They manned the firehouses and officials said fire protection was normal. There were no reports of serious fires.

A Circuit Court judge ordered both sides to negotiate before he considered issuing a temporary injunction to halt the job action by the 1,000-member union.

Issues included pay demands and length of work week. Fire fighters earned $11,070 after four years under the old contract, but neither side would cite specifics in this year's negotiations.

The "total strike" threatened by New York's 10,500 firemen was avoided at least for a while after members of the Uniformed Firefighters Association reported for work as scheduled. A state Supreme Court justice ordered further talks on the union's demands, which included a $2,000 pay hike in a one-year contract.

Base pay currently is $14,300 a year, and the city has offered $700 over an 18-month period, tying it to increased productivity.

The Fire Department issued special instructions for operating trucks with reduced crews and possibly civilian volunteers and threatened strikers with "instant disciplinary action." Strikes by public employes are outlawed by state law.

"I don't know if there will be a strike," Mayor John V. Lindsay said as he joined the negotiations.

The TWA dispute, involving some 5,000 members of the Airline Stewards' and Stewardesses Association, halted all the airline's operations. Ticket agents in New York were instructed to remain open but to book no reservations for flights before Nov. 10.

About 15,000 other TWA employes, including pilots and mechanics, were honoring the attendants' picket lines. The airline said nearly all the passengers due to fly on the 421 domestic and 36 foreign flights were transferred to other airlines.

Issues included hours, wages and fringe benefits. The contract with Local 550 of the Transport Workers Union expired 15 months ago.

Pickets were on hand outside the Daily News building 20 minutes after the strike began at 7:00 a.m. Printers then refused to cross the lines.

The News, the nation's largest circulation daily with 2.1 million, said in a statement that it intended to continue publication and continue negotiations with the Guild.

The talks collapsed when the union, which represents 1,400 editorial and other employes, rejected an offer of a $13.95-a-week increase in a two-year contract. Job security also was an issue.

The union's pact with the News and the New York Times, where the Guild represents 2,300 employes, expired in March, and the News was picked as the strike target last week.

The Washington Post resumed publication after a printers' work stoppage prevented publication of the paper's main news sections over the weekend. Picket lines were removed after the newspaper agreed to reinstate a printer dismissed during an alleged slowdown.

Also on Monday, members of the United Auto Workers returned to their jobs at International Harvester plants after a 15-day walkout. The strike had idled 40,500 workers in 11 states.

Weapons Bill OKd By Senators 69-12

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed a $21.3 billion weapons procurement bill Monday. The measure goes to President Nixon.

The vote was 69 to 12.

The compromise bill gives the administration nearly everything it wanted in weapons research and development authorization and military manpower levels.

But it includes a requirement that eight Public Health Service hospitals be kept operating, a provision that caused the President to veto an emergency medical services bill in July.

The bill is $659 million under the administration's defense procurement budget, but more than was voted in initial actions this year by either the House or Senate.

A $950 million overall reduction was eliminated in a House-Senate conference. The conferees also restored specific cuts made by the Senate for the B1 bomber and other aircraft and ship procurement programs.

Conferees also eliminated a Senate voted requirement that U.S. overseas troop strength be cut 110,000 by Dec. 31, 1975, and trimmed an overall reduction in military manpower levels.

The bill orders cutting the active strength of the armed forces by 43,000 men, reducing them to 2,190,000 by June 30, 1974.

Another provision will force a cut in U.S. forces in Europe next year by the percentage, if any, by which U.S. allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization fail to offset balance of payments deficits with the United States.

Subject to separate action on an appropriation bill, the authorization measure allows $1.5 billion for the current year to support the Navy's accelerated Trident nuclear powered submarine development program and its long range Trident missile system.

City Employes Seek Changes In Proficiency Merit Pay Plan

Lincoln city employes pressed city lawmakers Monday to revise the Proficiency Merit Pay Plan under which veteran workers receive wage increases.

The plan, which has been a continuing irritant among City Hall workers for years, is supported by the City Employes Association (CEA), Firefighters, Local 644, and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFSCME), Local 258.

It is not supported by the City Personnel Director Walt Mitchell or tne Personnel Board.

One thing both management and workers agreed upon is that the present plan isn't working.

One of the major "hang-ups" in the existing pay plan is the requirement that merit increases be given for "commendable service."

The definition of that term has been partially responsibile for the low number of employes given merit raises during the past year, Charles Noren, CEA attorney, contended.

He reported that since October, 1972, 267 workers were eligible for proficiency merit pay. Department heads submitted 16 names out of that number to the Internal Merit Review Committee and of that number only four employes were granted increases.

As of September, 1973, almost a year later, Noren noted that 329 City Hall workers were eligile for merit raises. No additional names were submitted to the review committee and no additional raises were awarded.

Noren contended that merit increases should be granted if the employe has maintained the same level of proficiency which raised that worker to "F Step," the highest level attainable by city employes.

Under the plan proposed by CEA, workers' names would be submitted to the review committee automatically. Department heads would then be required to provide a written yes or no recommendation on the granting of the merit increase. The plan also calls for an appeals procedure to be implemented.

Mike Merwick, representing the firefighters, said the present system is "causing a real moral problem in our department."

Noting that only one firefighter out of 150 eligible workers has been granted a merit raise, Merwick contended the present system "just is not working."

Don Elrod, president of AFSMCE, noted that not one of 560 AFSME employes has been granted an increase.

Mitchell told city lawmakers that no agreement could be reached on the proposal and said the plan as proposed by CEA would result in a controlled longevity plan.

Specifically, Mitchell said he opposed the proposed eligibility standards, the automatic review by the committee and the creation of an appeal procedure. Instead he suggested the council consider an alternate plan.

A third alternate came from the city legal department.

City Atty. Dick Wood presented a possible solution which allows the department heads to retain the right to recommend merit increases for their employes. However, the review committee would more closely monitor department heads' actions.

In answer to Councilwoman Helen Boosalis's question, Wood said Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf has indicated his approval of this plan.

Boosalis, with the consent of the rest of the council, agreed to ask the mayor to review the three plans and make a recommendation back to the council.

City Council Approves Updating Downtown Plan

Updating of the downtown plan is official.

The City Council Monday authorized the mayor to execute an $84,000 contract with Chicago consultants, Barton-Aschman Associates.

Additionally, the Downtown Advisory Committee (DAC) was designated to supervise the contract.

Although the decision was unanimous to approve the contract, Councilman Max Denney let it be known he wasn't too happy about the price-tag and the hiring of "another consultant."

Asking what he termed the "84,000 question," Denney asked, "Where's the money coming from?"

Planning Director Doug Brogden reported that funds will be transferred from an account in the planning department's budget. He reported that some of the $170,000 budgeted for the update of the Comprehensive Plan will not be spent in this fiscal year.

In other action the council reconsidered action on Gateway Realty's plans to expand its offices at O, Lyncrest and Eastridge Dr.

The council had rejected last week the application for a change of zone from A-1 Single Family to A-2 Single Family to F Restricted Commercial and G Local Business.

On Monday, the council by a 4 to 3 vote amended the application for Lot 1, which fronts O St., to F Restricted Commercial and placed the item on pending to discuss the change with Gateway Realty.

Councilmen Dick Baker and Steve Cook switched their votes from last week, joining Bob Sikyta and Denney in voting for the change. Council members Sue Bailey, Helen Boosalis and John Robinson voted to deny reconsideration.

Following up on action of last Monday, city lawmakers officially granted the National Bank of Commerce approval to place fuel storage tanks in the public right-of-way at 13th and P.

The council also authorized the mayor to execute a contract with the Open Door Health Center for emergency funding for the continuation of health counseling services for low income people. The $3,495 appropriation will come of general revenue sharing funds.

In further action the council:

ICC Vacancy Will Be Filled

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — A White House aide has been selected to fill a vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission, officials said Monday.

Charles L. Clapp, who has been on the White House staff since 1969, will be nominated by President Nixon to succeed Chester M. Wiggin Jr., who died last July.

COMPUTER CONFUSED BY INITIALS

WILLINGBORO, N.J. (AP) — Retired Army veteran Sandy Cheatham is a senior education major at nearby Burlington College. His wife, Mary, is a freshman majoring in social work. Their son Sandy III and daughter, Sandra, are students in the college's liberal arts program.

Cheatham, his son and daughter, all have the initials S.A. and, as a result, he said, "the V.A. computer kept messing up and rejecting our applications, and we wouldn't get our checks."

The problem was solved, however, when the Veterans Administration reprogrammed the computer to use different symbols for the three names.

THERE ARE SIX CUBES, RIGHT?

It depends. Stare at them for a few seconds and the 6 cubes suddenly become 7. It's just a visual illusion. MUZAK is like that. It's what you might call an aural illusion. It sounds like music but it's actually a scientifically conditioned musical environment. One that people don't really listen to, but react to psychologically and physiologically.

Companies all over the world — large and small — use MUZAK as a programmed musical climate to motovate people and increase their efficiency. It is easily one of the most effective, low-cost management tools you can use to stimulate your employees to greater production.

We can show you precisely how MUZAK can work for you most profitably. No obligation at all. Incidentally, the cube illusion above is from MUZAK'S booklet "Game Your Senses Play," which has many more puzzles and illusions to challenge you. If you would like a free copy and more information on our scientifically planned musical environments, just phone or write.

Cottonwood Health Group Receives $209,000 Grant

Tekamah (UPI) — A philanthropic institution headquartered in Princeton, N.J., has given a grant of $209,000 to the Cottonwood Health Group, Inc., of Tekamah.

Vic Rediger, Cottonwood president, said the funds will be used to support the health group's activities in developing a primary health care center for the Tekamah community and surrounding area.

David E. Rogers, president of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, said the funds will be disbursed to the Cottonwood health group during a three-year period.

The health group, will in turn, contract with Creighton University in Omaha to provide essential professional personnel to staff and maintain the health center in Tekamah.

Rogers said the Tekamah group could expect more than $120,000 during the first year through Nov. 1, 1974, and a lesser amount would follow during the second year. Third-year payments, he said, would be substantially reduced on the expectation that by the end of the developmental period, the health center would be self-sustaining.

Judge Orders Briefs Filed In Labor Dispute

North Platte (UPI) — A federal judge late Monday directed both sides in a labor dispute at the Nebraska Public Power District's Gerald Gentleman station to file briefs by Dec. 11.

Judge Ralph Winkler of Washington said after a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) Hearing involving a Teamsters Union Local and the Morrison-Knudson Construction Co., Boise, Idaho., that he would hand down a decision before the end of the year.

At issue is a dispute involving Local 554 of the General Drivers and Helpers Union and its contention that the construction company failed to obey an NLRB order to reinstate a union steward.

The steward, Terry Harvey, was removed from his job following a three-day strike at the Gentleman site near Sutherland last August. When he was not placed back on the job, the union set up pickets during a three-day walkout last week.

Barn Hit By Blaze

A fire in a barn at the Robert Manthey residence at 6855 South burned out of control for over an hour Monday night destroying the barn and much of its contents, according to fire inspector Jerry McGinn.

McGinn said the cause of the blaze is still under investigation, but there is a possibility it was started by children.

The 30 by 60 foot barn contained four to five hundred bales of hay, sacks of grain and alfalfa pellets, bee hives, car parts, a tractor and miling equipment.

The alarm was turned in by a neighbor who saw flames coming from the building.

Nebraska ETV Plans To Cover Watergate Case

Nebraska's Educational Television Network again this week plans to carry the Watergate hearings complete each evening.

The Public Broadcasting System, which last week canceled plans to televise the hearings, will be carrying them this week and they will thus be available to the state network.

The hearings will be carried in Nebraska on ETV after already-planned public service programs, which means the hearings will be broadcast beginning at 9 p.m. Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8 p.m. Thursday.

Market's Decline Dramatic

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a dramatic drop Monday, its sixth straight day of losing ground. Buyers moved aside amid calls for President Nixon's resignation, oil price hikes, oil shortages, and continued Mideast tensions, analysts said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had been down more than 18 points near closing, finished the day down 15.88 at 919.40 as declining Big Board issues held a 5-to-1 lead over gainers in a trading volume of 17.15 million shares.

Some analysts, noting the recent big gains and subsequent losses, said institutional domination was creating a volatility that moved the market dramatically up and down in days and weeks instead of months as in the past.

Before the recent losses, the market had moved up by about 16 per cent since late August.

Oils and chemicals, which depend heavily on petroleum, took big losses Monday as investors worried about oil and fuel shortages.

The Big Board leader was American Hospital supply down 1/8 at 40⅝, followed by British Petroleum down ½ at 143¾; Monsanto, off 2½ at 59¼; General gmotors down 1⅛ at 60⅛; and Household Finance, off ¾ at 22¼.

Other volume leaders included Dow Chemical down 2⅜ at 56⅝; American Cyanamid, down 1⅝ at 23¼; Alcoa off 4¾ at 70⅞; and Exxon, down ¾ at 92¼.

On the American Stock Exchange, the volume leader was TWA warrants, off ⅜ at 2½.

Declining Amex issues outpaced gainers by more than 4 to 1. The Amex market-value indeb closed down 1.45 at 105.11, while the Big Board's broad-based index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .90 at 56.71.

The NASDAQ composite index of the over-the-counter market was down 1.81 at 107.12.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 11-6

Cotton Bowl Maybe

Unless the roof completely collapses on the Huskers in the next two weeks against both Iowa State and Kansas State, Nebraska virtually wrapped up an airplane ticket to some bowl site with its 28-16 win over Colorado.

And wins over both the Cyclones and Wildcats could put the Husker fans in Dallas, Tex., for their New Year's Eve celebrating ahead of a Nebraska-Texas match in the Cotton Bowl the next day.

At this point, the Orange and Sugar bowls would appear to be out of the question for the Huskers and that picture isn't likely to change between now and the evening of Nov. 17 when bowl offers can be extended and accepted.

"Obviously, both the Orange and the Sugar Bowl are going to try to match Notre Dame and Alabama," one bowl scout was saying last weekend while in Lincoln for the Nebraska-Colorado tussle. "Right now, that's the dream match."

Both are undefeated and neither figures to lose before midnight of Nov. 17 with Alabama idle this week and playing Miami, Fla., on the 17th. Notre Dame plays Pittsburgh and has an open date on the 17th.

Notre Dame figures to be no gamble at all for the bowl people with only Air Force on Nov. 22 and Miami, Fla., on Dec. 1 coming up after the signing date. Alabama still would have to play LSU on Nov. 22 and Auburn on Dec. 1.

Sugar Has Inside Track

The Sugar Bowl appears to have the inside track on that one. New Orleans, site of the Sugar Bowl, has a large Catholic population and it's the only one of the three major bowls on the open market where the Irish haven't played.

The Irish also reportedly remember those bad oranges they got ahold of last year, the 40-6 licking by Nebraska leaving a bad taste in their mouths.

A writer, who covered the Notre Dame-Southern Cal game in South Bend a week ago and who covered Saturday's NU-Colorado contest, says he got a strong impression from Notre Dame folks that they were leaning toward New Orleans.

Another factor is that the Fighting Irish get a regular season trip to Miami anyway for their season finale.

But that brings up the question if Notre Dame does go to the Sugar Bowl, would Alabama's Bear Bryant, whose Crimson Tide are rated higher than the Irish, do as he did a year ago and try to find an easier foe in the hope that Ohio State would get upset?

"I don't think Bryant will avoid anyone this year," says one bowl official. "He received so much criticism last year for doing that, that I don't think he would do it again."

LSU, Penn State In Miami

If the Notre Dame-Alabama tiff does wind up on the Sugar Bowl calendar, that would leave Miami with Penn State and LSU, the other two teams on the open bowl market, who figure to be unbeaten on the night of Nov. 17.

LSU has an open date this week and plays Mississippi State on the 17th with Alabama on Nov. 22 and Tulane on Dec. 1 coming after the bowl lineup are decided. Penn State is virtually home free with games left against North Carolina State on Saturday, Ohio University on Nov. 17 and Pittsburgh on Nov. 24.

Of the teams that are left, that would leave Nebraska with the best record on the evening of Nov. 17, barring upsets such as Nebraska losing to either Iowa State or Kansas State or Missouri whipping Oklahoma this week.

If the latter happens, Cotton Bowl officials would cause a major traffic jam between Dallas and Columbia, Mo., to get the Tigers' signatures on a contract since Missouri with a win over Oklahoma would be an ideal team for the Dallas folks with little danger that they would embarrass Texas. The Tigers just don't score much, but they play good football.

With Ohio State or Michigan in the Rose Bowl against Southern Cal or UCLA, Notre Dame, Penn State, Alabama and LSU filling the four spots in the Orange and Sugar bowls, Texas and either Nebraska or Missouri in the Cotton Bowl, that leaves the Liberty (Dec. 17), Fiesta (Dec. 21), Peach, Bluebonnet, Sun and Gator (all on Dec. 29) to pick from among the following:

Texas Tech, Arkansas, SMU, Arizona or Arizona State (if neither or either doesn't win the host spot in the Fiesta), Kansas, Colorado, Tennessee, Auburn, North Carolina State, Houston and Tulane.

Osborne Warns Cyclones Are No Pushovers

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football fans were warned Monday not to expect Saturday's battle at Memorial Stadium between the Huskers and Iowa State to be a laugher.

After following the normal routine of reviewing the previous Saturday's game at the weekly Nebraska Extra Point Club Luncheon Monday, NU coach Tom Osborne dwelled longer than usual on the upcoming foe, in this case an Iowa State team that is 0-4 and in last place in the Big Eight.

"Some of the disappointment that has come this year has resulted from the attitude people have toward certain games," Osborne pointed out. "One case where this was true was the Kansas game, a team we had beaten 55-0 last year.

"When we didn't win big again this year, people were disappointed.

"If people are expecting to see a big romp Saturday, they're going to be disappointed because it's not going to be that way.

"This is virtually the same Iowa State team with the exception of the quarterback that tied us last year (23-23 at Ames) and Wayne Stanley, their new quarterback, has played well."

Osborne admitted, "Their record isn't good, but they're a fine team," and he pointed to how their record became 0-4 in the Big Eight and 2-5 overall.

The Cyclones lost by two to both Kansas and Kansas State, both teams scoring the winning points in the final two minutes, lost by seven to Colorado on a play similar to the trick play that went for a touchdown against NU Saturday, and by 34-17 to Oklahoma after jumping off to a 17-7 lead in the first half.

Iowa State also lost by only two in the closing minutes to Arkansas when Arkansas threw the winning touchdown pass with 12 men on the field.

"If you want to talk about a team that's had bad luck," Osborne noted, "Talk about Iowa State. You may think a team ought to fold when it's had the things happen to it that Iowa State has, but sometimes that just makes you more anxious to win.

"I'm not crying wolf. I'm just telling you the truth."

Reviewing the 28-16 win over Colorado, "If we had lost that game, we'd have lost prestige, lost any chance we had of winning the Big Eight and lost any chance we might have had to going to a major bowl.

"We haven't talked about bowls yet, but that's always an incentive for players and in that regard and to keep our hopes of winning the Big Eight alive, these next two games are very important."

Aside from not scoring in the second half after taking a 28-3 lead in the first 30 minutes, the Husker coach said his biggest disappointment Saturday was that he didn't get a chance to play more people.

"We'd like to be getting more players into the games, he said, "But when Colorado came back in the second half, we didn't feel we could take a chance with fresh players."

Osborne also revealed that several of his players were suffering before the game from what he described as "food poisoning or something."

He said those hit by the ailment included I-back John O'Leary, defensive backs Ardell Johnson and Randy Borg and offensive guard Dan Anderson.

Two Husker Black Shirt defensive players are rated as doubtful for the Iowa State game and a second unit defensive player may be out for the season.

"We don't know about John Bell," Osborne said of the Husker middle guard, who suffered a hyperextended knee Saturday. "He might be able to play by Saturday. Then again, he might be lucky if he's back by the Kansas State game (Nov. 17)."

The other defensive starter, who is ailing is safety Bob Thornton, who has a sore leg. If Thornton is unable to play, the Huskers would be in dire straits at safety since alternate George Kyros suffered a dislocated elbow Saturday and may be out for the season.

Osborne said monster back Mark Heydorff probably would be moved to safety if Thornton is unable to play and he said tackle John Lee probably would be shifted back to middle guard to shore up that position where Willie Thornton will get the starting call in place of Bell.

STEELERS TRIUMPH

Hanratty Tosses Two TD's Before Injury

. . . PITTSBURGH LEADS BY 2 ½

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Hanratty fired a pair of touchdown passes before being sidelined with a rib injury in the third quarter and the Steelers hung on to beat the Washington Redskins 21-16 Monday night in a National Football League game.

The Steelers, who swept to their 13th straight regular-season victory at home, led 14-9 in the third quarter of the nationally-televised game when Hanratty aggravated a rib injury suffered a week before and had to retire from action.

Hanratty's replacement, second-year man Joe Gilliam passed 46 yards to Barry Pearson in the final quarter for a third Steeler touchdown and the Pittsburgh defense did the rest, including a key interception by Glen Edwards of a Washington pass at the Steeler goal line in the closing minutes.

Pittsburgh, which boosted its record to 7-1 and widened its lead to 2½ games in the American Conference Central Division went ahead 7-3 in the first period when Hanratty threw seven yards to Preston Pearson for a touchdown.

The Redskins are now 5-3 and dropped into a tie for first place with Dallas in the National Conference East.

Washington took a 3-0 lead in the first period on one of Curt Knight's three field goals—a 30-yarder.

The Redskins scored their first touchdown in eight quarters in the final period when Bill Kilmer passed 17 yards to Larry Brown. And Washington was knocking on the door in the final minute until Edwards stopped the threat by stealing Kilmer's pass.

Midway in the second quarter, Knight kicked his second field goal, this time from the 12. However, Hanratty, who became the Steeler starter when Terry Bradshaw separated his shoulder last week, hit Ron Shanklin with a 20-yard pass later in the second period to give the Steelers a 14-6 halftime lead.

Knight kicked a 16-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Brigg Owens' third interception of the game set up Washington's only TD with 6:56 left. Owens' picked off a Gilliam pass and returned it 17 yards to the Pittsburgh 28-yard line. Six plays later, quarterback Kilmer hit Brown with a touchdown pass.

In the first quarter, Mike Bass intercepted a Hanratty pass and returned it 24 yards to the Steeler 23-yard line to set up Knight's initial field goal.

Hanratty, making his first start in two seasons, responded with a 65-yard scoring drive that ended with his seven-yard toss to Preston Pearson. Franco Harris keyed the drive with a 35-yard run.

Pittsburgh squandered an early scoring chance when Roy Gerela missed a 26-yard field goal try four plays after Joe Greene recovered a Kilmer fumble at the Washington 19yard line on the first Redskin play from scrimmage.

Williams Leaves Racing Post

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — There will be a new racing secretary at three, and perhaps four, outstate Nebraska horse race tracks next season.

It was revealed at the first day of the two-day annual meeting of the Nebraska State Racing Commission that Dean Williams, veteran Nebraska correspondent for the Daily Racing Form, has submitted his resignation for the secretary's post at Grand Island's Fonner Park, Lincoln, Columbus and Atokad Park.

It is still undecided if Williams, who was not present at the Omaha meeting, will work as secretary in 1974 at Fonner Park. Fonner general manager Al Swihart will meet with the Grand Island resident on Wednesday to resolve the issue.

"I submitted my resignation on Oct. 10 and I told Al that since it was kind of quick notice I would work this season (1974) if he couldn't find anyone else," he said.

When asked if his resignation as racing secretary was caused, to at least some extend, by the pressures of his other racing positions, Williams replied. "All in all, it totals up to something like that."

He said he would retain his Form position and also has asked to keep his post as public address announcer at the four tracks. He added that it appeared he would keep his announcing post.

Williams' decision immediately cast Bob Pollock, Williams' assistant racing secretary the past three years, into prime consideration as his successor.

Harry Farnham, chairman of the commission, said the three-man commission has the power of approval if Pollock decides on accepting or is offered the post.

He said Williams accepted the post at Lincoln, Columbus and Atokad for the 1971 horse racing season as a one-year temporary assignment that stretched into three years.

Williams, who has been racing secretary at Fonner since the 1966 season, has served the other three tracks as secretary since the 1971 season. He replaced Jack Fickler, who assumed duties of the state steward at all race tracks.

Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha is not affected by Williams' resignation from the other tracks.

Williams' decision was the major news in an otherwise routine opening-day session that touched on problems of the horsemen to discussions of closing the Commission's Lincoln office and opening a mobile trailer as the main office.

The five tracks have applied for 181 days for next season — three more than this season. The commission will act on the request at a Tuesday meeting.

The State Fairgrounds in Lincoln and Ak-Sar-Ben have both asked for the second week in July, but it is anticipated that Omaha will receive that week due to its greater potential for obtaining revenue for the state.

The Commission was slated to meet Monday night with a contingent of Kearney interests desiring quarter horse racing in the western part of Nebraska, specifically North Platte and Kearney.

The dates each track seeks in 1974:

Lincoln — July 9 — Aug. 17. No racing on Mondays. Total — 30 days.
Columbus — Aug. 20 — Sept. 21. No racing on Mondays except Sept. 2. No racing on Sept. 3. Total — 25 days.
Atokad — (South Sioux City) — Sept. 25 — Nov. 2. No racing Mondays except Oct. 7 and 21. Total — 31 days.

Stutzman-Bestick Bout Set

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

If there was ever a "dream bout" between two heavyweights in amateur boxing, the one scheduled for Wednesday night at Pershing Auditorium could fill that category.

Defending Midwest Golden Gloves champion Ron Stutzman will fight the Golden Gloves champion from Iowa, Kevin Bestick in a bout that will pit two boxer punchers against each other.

Stutzman has compiled an impressive list of victories among fighters in the Nebraska region — a list that includes a fair number of knockouts and TKO's. Bestick's record is equally as impressive.

In his only Lincoln appearance last year, Bestick scored a three-round decision over Mike Rowe. Bestick won every round, combining speed with hard rights and lefts and slipping away from any combinations that Rowe tried to put together.

And Rowe was no slouch as a fighter. Until the Southeast District Golden Gloves trials, Rowe had only one defeat on his record and that was to Bestick. He lost in the semifinals against Dave Hill . . . a former Midwest title holder.

Bestick at that time had over 30 amateur fights — including Iowa Silver Gloves bouts — and had yet to be defeated. The South Sioux Citian earned crowd approval in that battle by putting on a display of boxing ability and punching power that had most spectators involuntarily wincing from the blows.

Stutzman carries equally impressive credentials, scoring decisive knockouts including one over Wayman Hawkins of Fairbury in 1:54 of the second round in a semifinal bout during the Southeast District Golden Gloves last year.

Since that time, Stutzman has been in the ring twice, earning knockouts both times in the second round.

Last year, Stutzman was awarded the outstanding boxer trophy during the Southeast tournament, but this year has found it difficult to obtain fights.

"A lot of boxers don't want to fight me," Stutzman said after the pairings were made during the last Lincoln boxing smoker. "The coaches don't want to put their boxers in against me. But when I was first starting, I had to fight other people who had a lot more experience then than I do now."

That statement brought about the match Wednesday night. Bill Engles, a referee-coach from South Sioux City, picked up the gauntlet and the bout was made.

"Ive heard a lot about him," Stutzman said. "I think it'll be a good fight if he's as good as they say he is."

Weighins are scheduled for 6:30 p.m. with fighting getting underway at 7:30.

Grant-Medicine Valley Defenses To Be Tested

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

When third-ranked Grant plays fifth-ranked Medicine Valley Friday night at Curtis, it'll be more than a battle between Class C powers.

It'll be a battle to determine who's the best of two highly — touted defenses. Grant has seven shutouts in nine games and has given up only 20 points. And Medicine Valley has six shutouts, in eight games, yielding 22 points.

"We thought our outstanding feature last year when we went unbeaten was defense, but I think we're probably on a par with that this year," says first-year Grant coach Al Gaston, who succeeded the near legendary Ed Haenfler.

Grant's superlative effort has surprised Gaston, who inherited only three defensive starters from Haenfler's 8-0-1 state runnerup club.

"We have seven underclassmen — one sophomore and six juniors — starting on defense. They've played like veterans," observes Gaston.

Serving six years as an assistant under Haenfler, according to Gaston, "taught me a little patience to stick with a game plan and not get excited."

Three seniors — tackle Bob Ziemer (6-2, 190) and linebackers Mike Carlson (6-1, 190) and Kevin Deaver (6-2, 180) — have led Grant in upholding its excellent football tradition.

Medicine Valley coach Les Stencel has built tradition at the Curtis school, too. Taking the former University of Nebraska agricultural prep school which rarely experienced more than one win in a single season, Stencel has compiled records of 4-5, 7-2, 8-1, 8-1 and 7-0-1 in five seasons.

"Grant ruined perfect seasons in the final game both of those 8-1 years," notes Stencel, who has beaten Grant once in four tries.

"We spend a tremendous amount of time on fundamentals. We still drive the sled every night in practice," says Stencel, whose club's only blemish is a 6-6 tie with sixth-ranked Arapahoe.

Senior linebackers Doug Ruppert (6-1, 195) and Larry Owens (5-9, 150) have led Medicine Valley's defense.

"But I wouldn't trade my two defensive ends either," Stencel says of Matt Phillips and Scott Magee.

"I hope it's a defensive battle against Grant," adds Stencel, pointing out that his club is minus the services of quarterback Duane Fischer. He's sidelined for the season with a bruised kidney.

"He was our second leading rusher and was four completions short of the school passing record until he was injured last week in practice," according to Stencel.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Randy York

Class B

1—Lexington (9-0)
2—Lincoln Pius X (6-0-1)
3—Fairbury (8-0)
4—Omaha Gross (7-1-1)
5—Blair (8-0)
6—Columbus Scotus (8-1)
7—Schuyler (8-1)
8—Chadron (8-1)
9—Cozad (8-1)
10—Columbus Lakeview (7-1)

Comment — Norris drops from fourth out of the ratings after 19-12 loss to Crete, which despite a 5-4 record, is a prime ratings contender. Three of Crete's four losses are to top 10 members Lincoln Pius X, Fairbury and Schuyler. The other setback, 18-16 to York, prevents top 10 status. Columbus Lakeview hasn't played a power schedule, but its only blemish is last-minute 18-14 loss to Schuyler.

Class C

1—Plainview (9-0)
2—St. Edward (8-0)
3—Grant (8-1)
4—Bassett (7-0)
5—Medicine Valley (7-0-1)
6—Arapahoe (7-0-1)
7—Hay Springs (9-0)
8—Sutton (8-1)
9—Ravenna (8-1)
10—Dodge (9-0)

Comment — Neligh and Hastings St. Cecilia drop out and Ravenna and Dodge move in. Ravenna has six shutouts and has allowed only 28 points. Its loss is 8-0 to twice loser Shelton. Morrill (7-1) was impressive 22-0 winner over Oshkosh and rates foremost top 10 consideration. Neligh also has credentials to rejoin top 10.

Ravenell Aids UNO Grid Success Story

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

UNO has upgraded its athletic program, such as playing national power Jackson State in football and continuing to win at the same time.

Maverick head football coach Al Caniglia credits part of this success to Saul Ravenell, who has rushed for 1,104 yards on 263 carries.

"Saul hadn't played much before this year because we had all-Americans Charlie McWhorter and Phil Wise," Caniglia says.

"However, this year Saul earned a starting position and has really helped the team by becoming a great runner."

Ravenall, a 5-8, 165-pounder, has already broken two school rushing records and only needs 42 yards to better another.

In the 30-19 win over Western Carolina, Ravenell gained 222 yards on 44 carries. The 44 attempts broke the old mark of 41 set by McWhorter last year.

Then in a 13-10 upset victory over No. 3 ranked and previously unbeaten Emporia, Kan., Ravenell picked up 224 yards on 42 carries.

The UNO I-back has now carried the ball 263 times, which is better than the old school record of 243, also set by McShorter last year.

"Saul is an extremely durable runner," Caniglia says. "There aren't a lot of players who can carry the ball that much in two straight games and gain that much yardage.

"We only ask Saul to carry the ball that much since we knew he could do it with great success and needed that kind of effort to win."

Emporia was 7-0 going into the UNO game and rated No. 3 in the NAIA Division I schools.

"We took away the option play and made Emporia do some things it wasn't used to doing," Caniglia recalls.

"Emporia hurt us last year with the option when we lost 17-7, but we were well prepared this year to contain it and make them to play our game."

With Ravenell's running the Mavericks were able to play what Caniglia calls "discipline football."

"We didn't try anything fancy," he explains. "We just took what we do well and played a good ball-control game."

UNO has one game left and it will be at home against the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee. It will be the first time the Mavericks play on their newly-installed AstroTurf field.

"We've been practicing on the AstroTurf the last two weeks and everyone really likes it," Caniglia says. "We hope we can end the season on our new field with a win."

Waller Replaces Chargers' Svare

San Diego (UPI) — Harland Svare, under pressure from angered fans, stepped down as coach of the San Diego Chargers Monday and was replaced by Ron Waller.

Svare told newsmen he decided to resign as head coach but will remain as the Chargers' general manager. Waller, San Diego's special team coordinator, will take over immediately.

"Our record is too poor—we're not winning," Svare said in stepping down. "Every loss has been hard on me."

Svare has been the target of boos for the last month as the Chargers fell to a 1-6-1 record. Sunday, after a 19-0 loss to Kansas City, there was fighting in the stands and objects were thrown at Svare.

Making no excuses, Svare told newsmen the team's personnel was immeasureably better today than it was two years ago when he took over. He still has three years to go on a five-year contract.

Majority owner Gene Klein said he selected Waller because of his record as a head coach with Norfolk and Pottstown in the Continental League, where he was 43-6.

Klein said the appointment was only until the end of the season, the same statement he made when he named Svare to replace Sid Gillman in 1971.

Waller said he would handle the offense and Willie Wood would be defensive coordinator.

"We'll work as a team," Waller said.

He added he was hoping for a more wide-open offense but said it would be hard to change philosophies in mid-season.

Waller was informed of the decision early Monday morning and said he needed a day to determine what he would do with the team.

Klein said, "Svare worked as diligently and hard at a tough job as any man I've ever known and it is unfortunate the results weren't there."

Svare said he drove to Klein's La Jolla home Sunday night and discussed the decision for about four hours.

Big 8 Cites ISU's Hunt

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Losers usually aren't winners but that wasn't true Monday in the case of Lawrence "Big Daddy" Hunt.

Hunt, middle linebacker on the Iowa State football team, was unanimously selected Big Eight Conference defensive player of the week by a panel of sports writers even though the Cyclones lost 34-17 Saturday to the Oklahoma Sooners.

Hunt not only impressed his own coach, Earle Bruce, but the Oklahoma boss, Barry Switzer.

"Hunt . . .," Switzer said, pausing. "I don't know who is the best defensive player in the league. Hunt comes up with that type of performance against us on a team that has won only two games, and lost five."

"He's all over the football field," Bruce said of his 235-pound star. "We've been using him about 95 per cent of the time in our games as a down lineman. . .to help with the pass rush. He covers a lot of territory.

"Hunt very definitely has a lot of quickness on the line of scrimmage. He likes to hit. He goes where the ball is. He was doing that against Oklahoma."

Hunt has 16 unassisted and six assisted tackles against the Sooners, the nation's third-ranked team. He blocked an Oklahoma extra point and caused two fumbles.

Also nominated for defensive honors were Lucious Selmon of Oklahoma, Theopolis Bryant of Kansas State, Willie Thornton of Nebraska, Kurt Knoff of Kansas, Barry Price of Oklahoma State, Greg Westbrooks of Colorado and Bob McRoberts of Missouri.

Cyclones List Single Injury

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Iowa State's only questionable starter for Saturday's Big Eight football clash with Nebraska is cornerback Randy Bozich, Coach Earl Bruce said Monday.

Bruce said Bozich bruised a muscle on top of his foot in last week's 34-17 loss to Oklahoma but "we hope he is back with us by the middle of the week."

Bruce nominated defensive middle guard Larry (Big Daddy) Hunt and quarterback Wayne Stanley for Big Eight player of the week honors.

Hunt was credited with 22 tackles, 16 of them unassisted, against No. 3 Oklahoma. He also caused two Sooner fumbles and blocked an extra point attempt.

Stanley hit his first seven pass attempts, including two touchdown strikes to tight end Keith Krepfle as the Cyclones built an early 17-7 lead.

Onofrio Lauds Sooners, 'But You Need More'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Al Onofrio, coach of the once-beaten Missouri football team, said Monday Oklahoma is "possibly the best defensive team in the country."

Onofrio, aware of the nearness of Saturday's battle between the Tigers and undefeated and third ranked Oklahoma, quickly added that Missouri must "be able to move the ball consistently which nobody has in Oklahoma's last three or four games.

"You can't win with defense alone."

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, likewise talking by telephone during the weekly briefing session of the Big Eight Conference, regards Missouri as a club "with tremendous team quickness and pursuit. They're patient.

"Missouri is not a team that is overly impressive with their statistics but they score in that left-hand column — the wins. They capitalize on errors teams make, and they don't make many mistakes."

Switzer viewed the Tigers' defense as "tough. Their defense is no easier to run against than last year's Missouri defense.

"Sure, we'll be in a great position to win the conference championship if we beat Missouri."

Oklahoma is 3-0 in the conference and Missouri, 12th ranked, is 3-1.

Iowa State Coach Earle Bruce said his team would be at full strength for Saturday's test at Nebraska. The only observation Bruce made about the Cornhuskers was that Nebraska appears to be a different team with receiver Frosty Anderson back. Anderson returned following an injury to help the Huskers beat Colorado 28-16 last Saturday.

Tom Osborne, Nebraska coach, likewise, said little about the Cyclones, who have won only two of five games, except that "it's rather amazing that their record isn't better than it is. They've been an unlucky team so far."

Coach Don Fambrough of Kansas said playing Colorado Saturday "will be rought with all of these injuries. I think we'll be ready to play, and our big concern is to keep Colorado from five and six-yarding us to death."

"Kansas looks to be the best Kansas team in years," said Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder. "They've got a superb passing game with Dave Jaynes at quarterback. Offensively, they've got great firepower.

"And they are playing superb defense. Mitch Sutton and Fedro Dillon are two of the finest defensive tackles in the country."

Coach Jim Stanley of Oklahoma State, disturbed because his team has been held to two successive ties, turned his attention to Saturday's game with Kansas State and said the Wildcats are "a better team on the field than on paper. They always play us good."

Kansas State Coach Vince Gibson said the Wildcats must "come up with more big plays" against the Cowboys. "Oklahoma State is like us . . . they've played well. They're big and strong. I don't think they've put it all together."

Secretariat's Final Show At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretariat will make his final public appearance when he parades through the stretch at Aqueduct between races Tuesday.

The Triple Crown winner, who closed out his career with a victory in the Canadian International Championship Oct. 28, is scheduled to go to stud at Claiborne Farm in Paris, Ky., under terms of a record $6.08 million.

A decision on when Secretariat will leave for Kentucky has not yet been announced.

Outdoor Report

NORTHEAST

Number of hunters generally throughout the area decreased from last year and those hitting the fields braved cold weather, some snow, and heavy cover. Only about 20 percent of the corn has been harvested and most people reporting feel this was the main cause for the poor success.

Several limits of pheasants were checked over the weekend. Hunters reported the birds were sitting very tight which might have contributed to few roosters being sighted.

Some ducks and geese were taken throughout the area and large flocks of waterfowl were seen moving into and through the area.

PANHANDLE

The area around Alliance seems to have had the best success on pheasants in the entire state. However, biologists emphasize that this area is small and success will drop if the hunting pressure increases too much.

Heavy snow has hindered travel in the area and heavy cover and grain standing in the fields has meant adverse conditions for many hunters. Some mixed bags of ringnecks and mallards were checked at stations in the area.

Ducks and geese are reported to be moving into the area in large numbers. About 10,000 ducks were reported on Lake Minatare and Lake Alice.

SAND HILLS

Hunting pressure and success are down this year probably due to snow and sloppy road conditions to some extent. Hunters have bagged about three-fourths rooster per man in the area. Hunters report seeing few birds and those spotted have been holding in the cover. Those using dogs were probably enjoying the best success.

Waterfowl are moving into the area but most small ponds are frozen. Some mallards and geese are being taken.

SOUTHWEST

Hunting pressure seems to be down considerably from past years, probably due to cold, nasty weather and bad roads. Hunters who are out have been bagging about one pheasant for every two hunters. Shooters in Lincoln County have reported good success. The grain harvest seems to be progressing rapidly with 50 to 90 percent of the crops already out of the fields. Some hunters have been bringing in mixed bags including pheasants, quail, squirrel, rabbit, and ducks. A few geese have moved into the Clear Creek Waterfowl Management Area.

SOUTHEAST

Hunting pressure is severely down in the face of the weekend's high winds and cold. Success ranges from ½ to 1 bird per hunter. Some quail, squirrel, rabbit, and ducks are being taken. A large movement of geese is reported in the rainwater basin area.

Fairbury Reports 'Unfounded'

Fairbury — C. L. (Red) Grovert, athletic director at the Nebraska Technical-Community College at Fairbury, stated Monday that reports saying the football program at his school would be dropped were "completely unfounded."

"We are already under contract to five schools to play football next season," Grovert said. "We have every intention of fielding a team next season and will fulfill our contracts."

Grovert explained that a committee has been set up to study the total scholarship picture in all seven areas of the newly formed Technical-Community College system.

"The committee won't strictly be considering athletic cuts or cuts of any kind until they receive input from all the schools involved," Grovert continued. "The committee's objective will be setting up a uniform scholarship system that will be fair to all the schools involved. And I go along with that idea completely."

Grovert admitted he was surprised at the reports he'd read concerning the dropping of football at Fairbury.

"Football is a part of our total program at Fairbury," he said. "And we think the committee's study will help make each school's athletic program stronger in the long run."

Bears' Pass Defense Sets New Record

Chicago (UPI) — The Chicago Bears broke a 28-year-old club record Sunday in allowing the Green Bay Packers minus 12 yards passing, a check of the record book showed Monday.

The previous Bears record was minus 1 yard passing by Pittsburgh Nov. 25, 1945. In that game the Steelers completed two of 20 passes while Sunday the Packers completed three of 16 for 17 yards, but the Packers' quarterbacks were thrown four times for 29 yards lost.

Unser Reported In 'Good Condition'

Phoenix (AP) — Bobby Unser, who suffered broken ribs when his car crashed against a guard rail during Sunday's Arizona 150, was reported in "very good condition," a spokesman at Good Samaritan Hospital said Monday.

"He's resting well," the spokesman said. "About 3 this afternoon we'll have a decision on whether he can be moved or possibly discharged."

USD Athlete Coach Hoy Dies At Home

Vermillion, S.D. (AP) — Carl B. "Rube" Hoy, longtime basketball coach and athletic director at the University of South Dakota, died at his home here Sunday at the age of 80.

Hoy won four letters in football and track and two in basketball as a student at USD. He joined the Coyote athletic staff in 1915 and coached basketball from 1927-48 and again from 1952-54. His teams won North Central Conference titles in 1930, 1931 and 1939. He also was head track coach from 1941-46 and athletic director from 1934-57.

Bruins' Sanderson Sent To AHL Club

Boston (AP) — The Boston Bruins Monday assigned center Derek Sanderson to the Boston Braves, their American Hockey League affiliate.

Managing Director Harry Sinden said the colorful Sanderson cleared waivers by all other National Hockey League teams. He will start practicing with the Braves immediately.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY STARTS IMMEDIATELY

What I have to offer is no gimmic. I need 2 men to help me operate an insurance office in the Lincoln and surrounding area for a national company.

I offer a fine career for the right person in sales, service and management. No experience necessary, will train the right person.

Guaranteed income while training then high commissions thereafter. Exceptional retirement and fringe benefits.

Regardless of the type of work you have been doing — if you are ambitious, want a true career and fine income, are of good character and of legal age you might be the right person.

Do not let your natural reluctance towards the unusual insurance ad prevent you from seeing what I have to show you. You will find it eye opening and refreshing.
